From the north, south, east, and west, we came--all to East High. Coming to East from two junior high schools or returning from fun-filled summer, we sensed a feeling of anticipation in the air as we followed East-signs to a world of learning and to new interests and friends. With the aid of a map and an Enlightener, newcomers spent the first days hunting for classrooms and lockers. However, it did not take long to make acquaintance with East's first foreign exchange student, Rita Walvis from the Netherlands. In the direction of studies we surrounded ourselves with textbooks and became engrossed with new facts and unusual ideas. We grew in the understanding of our world not only in the classroom and library, but also through school assemblies and field trips. After school we plunged into extra-curricular activities, planning pep convos, attending athletic or drama practices, and serving as volunteer workers. We made new friends; we also discovered EAST IN ALL DIRECTIONS.

Linda,
Best of luck in your future years. Remember all the crazy times we had in homeroom. See you around Orientation day sees a new set of sophomores battle the heat as they begin their high school careers. Seniors greet the newcomers.

One of the many facilities available to teachers at East High is the faculty dining room. Three of the new teachers this year, Mr. D. DeBoalt, Mr. V. Deason, and Miss J. Collings, English, Chemistry, and gym teachers respectively, are shown during their lunch period.

Newcomers wary, but impressed with East

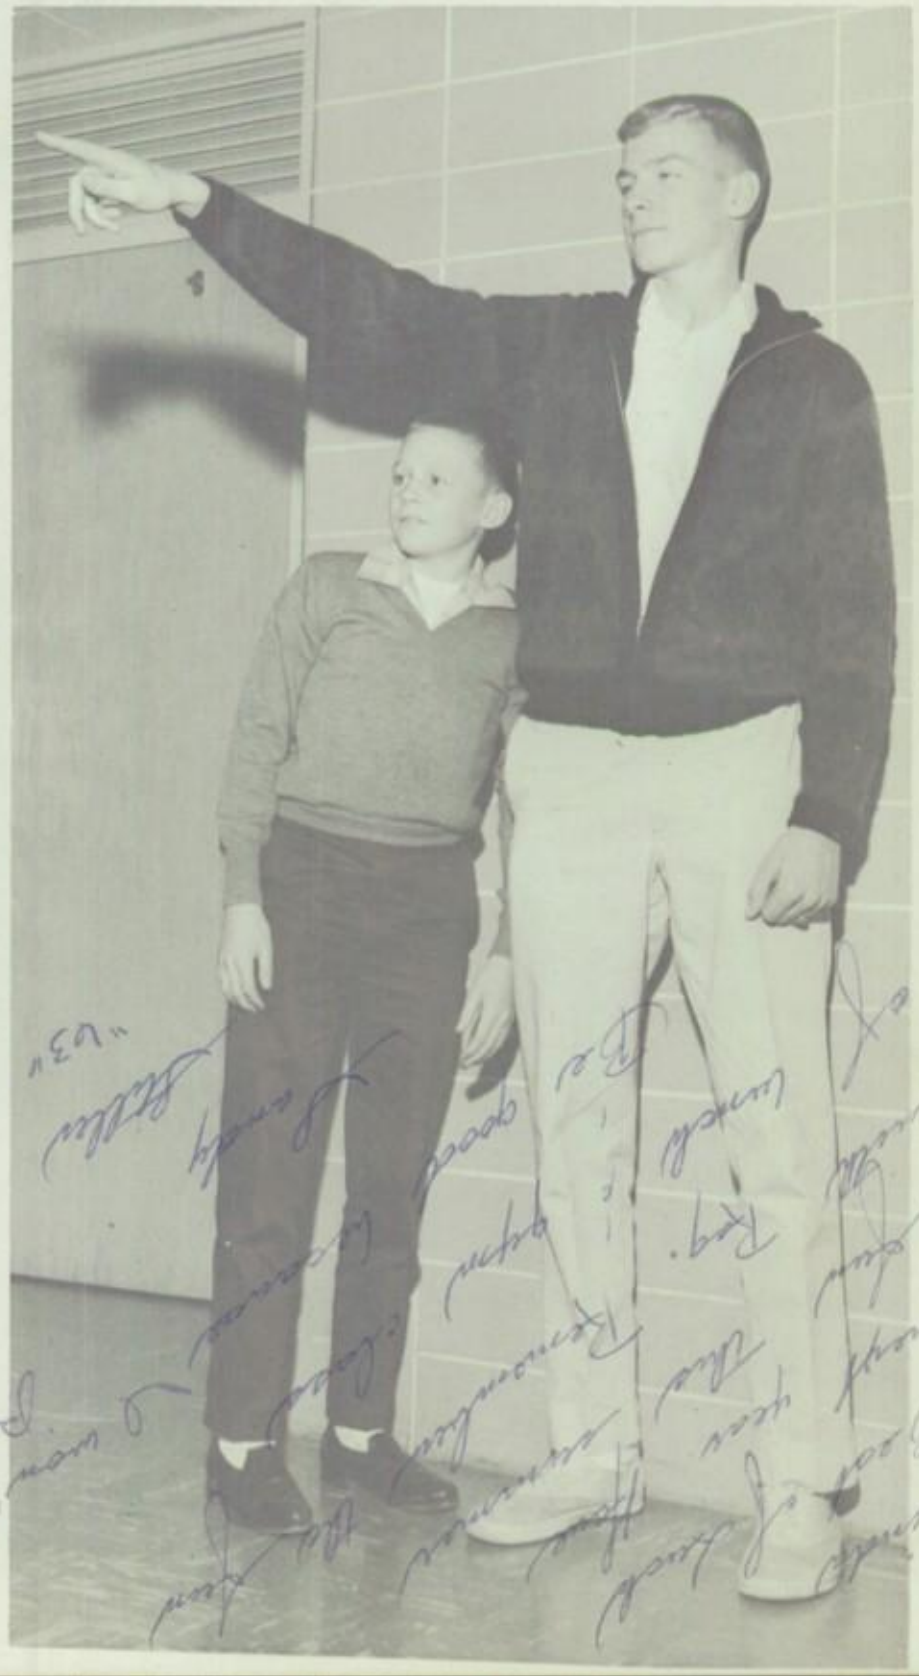
New students were welcomed to East on Orientation Day last fall. The program, planned by Mr. Willis Inman, head of the guidance department, acquainted the 605 sophomores and 48 transfer students with the everyday school procedures. The length of class periods, time allowed to change classes, the fees paid by each student for materials, and East's dress code were explained by Mr. Gene Houser. Dr. Frederick Abel, Mr. Aaron Albright, and Mr. Cliff Robert also spoke at the assembly. The presidents of Student Council, Boys' Club, and Girls' Club were introduced to the students. Upperclassmen served as guides and helped familiarize the newcomers with East High. After the tour, cokes were provided for the bewildered students who, one week later, began school life at East.

Bewilderment and amazement are mirrored in the face of D. Wilke, sophomore, as he is directed by senior, P. Woolley.



Toward September many of East's students look with expectation to school and the new semester. Summer is left behind for another year.

Linda,
Best of Luck always.
Remember our school years
and all the fun we have had.

Facilities of a community available at East

East High's bank manager, Mrs. Hilgen, is in charge of collecting student fees, selling activity tickets, and handling organizational funds.

Duties such as changing light patterns during school productions are assigned to J. Newcomb, a member of East's stage crew.

East High, the home of 1,463 students for seven hours a day, five days a week, is really a small community. The 33-acre campus includes...its own bank where organizations have their accounts... the bookstore which carries school supplies...the library which affords a learning atmosphere for East's scholars...an auditorium where entertaining and educational programs can be seen...an apple machine for after school snacks...a spacious parking lot which houses five hundred cars.

The Student Council malt machine and Mrs. Beukelman furnish East High students with refreshments during four lunch periods.

Throughout the year, displays such as this one depicting National Bible week, were arranged by the librarians for the display case.

Mrs. Beukelman is kept busy by East High students as they crowd into the school bookstore for last-minute supplies and special paperback books for the required book reports.

Both community and school-sponsored events are held in East High's spacious auditorium which seats 2005. It is one of the largest and best equipped in the state of Illinois.

Long hours of hard workbring the satisfaction of a job well done. A trophy, a certificate of merit, or just a pat on the back are the visible rewards to East's students when they have. . .executed a good tackle in a football game. . .perfected their musical techniques before a solo contest. . .labored over textbooks crammed with important facts. . .patiently cut and pasted decorations for a social event . . .concentrated on memorizing lines and songs from the spring musical.

The library showcase provides an effective setting for the 1962 Big Eight football trophy, shared by Auburn, Elgin, and East.

Hard work brings rewards to East's students

G. May, an East High junior, and Mr. Harth discuss their trip to the New Jersey Bell Telephone laboratories. Gary won the trip on the basis of a competitive exam taken by all interested students.

Representing East High School on WBBM-TV's "Rebuttal" are M. Nelson and J. Gaspar, two varsity members of the debate team. Their appearance was one facet of East's speech program.

After purchasing an old, run-down farm which they believe to have significant historical value, Annabelle and Newton Fuller discover they have some serious difficulties which may lead to a foreclosure of their mortgage. They find a quiet moment to discuss possible solutions to their problems in the fall play, "George Washington Slept Here." The stars of this rollicking comedy were S. Stiller and D. Senneke.

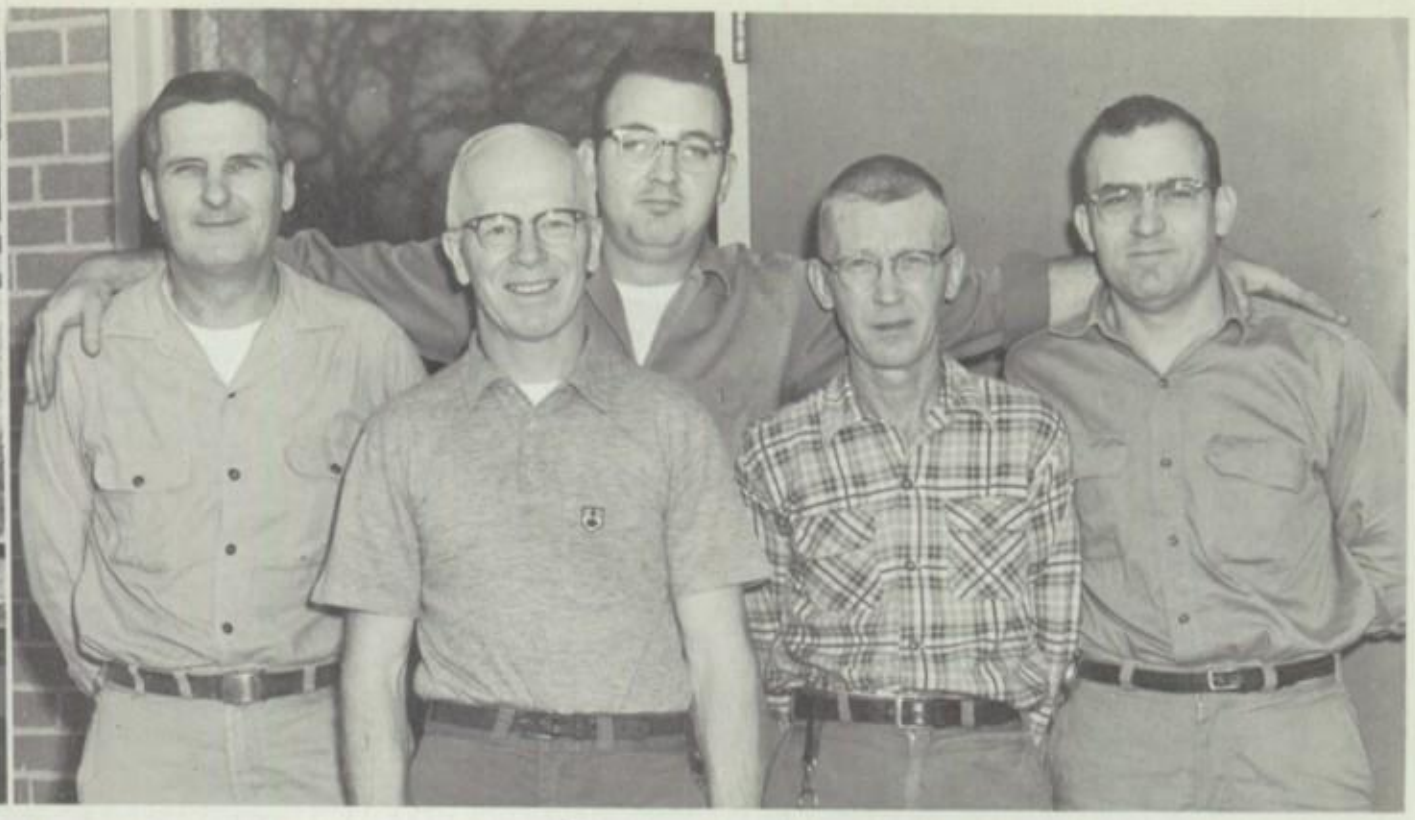
All classes enjoy good times during the year

Often during the busy school year, East High students took time out for a bit of fun. They participated in. . .school plays which entertained the student body and citizens of Aurora. . .athletic contests where moments of excitement and tension were experienced by both spectators and participants. . .fifth quarter dances and proms which offered to all an evening of fun. . .pep convos where school spirit was fired up for the coming game.

A Senior-Faculty game sponsored by Student Council provided enjoyment for observers and funds for a foreign exchange student.

At half-time and between games, many excited fans sought the concession stand for a cup of cooling refreshment to soothe their parched throats.

Pride is reflected in the face of B. Bartelt, as he raises the flag in front of East High, one of his many everyday responsibilities.



Members of the custodial and maintenance staff are A. Grensky, B. Bartelt, D. Quigley, H. Weber, and J. Lulling. Other custodians include J. Balint, R. Berneord, R. Challis, V. Godfrey, A. Hughes, G. Popp, L. Ludwig, engineer, and H. Krause, maintenance. These men take care of the many duties involved in keeping a big school like East in top condition.

Staff, students keep things running smoothly

What makes East High tick? It is . . . the janitors keeping the building clean and attractive so that the students and the citizens of the community can maintain their pride in East. . .the cafeteria worker preparing and serving five meals a week for the hungry student body and faculty . . . the student leaders in East High's organizations guiding the student body and bolstering school spirit . . . East High's faculty teaching and supervising extra-curricular activities.

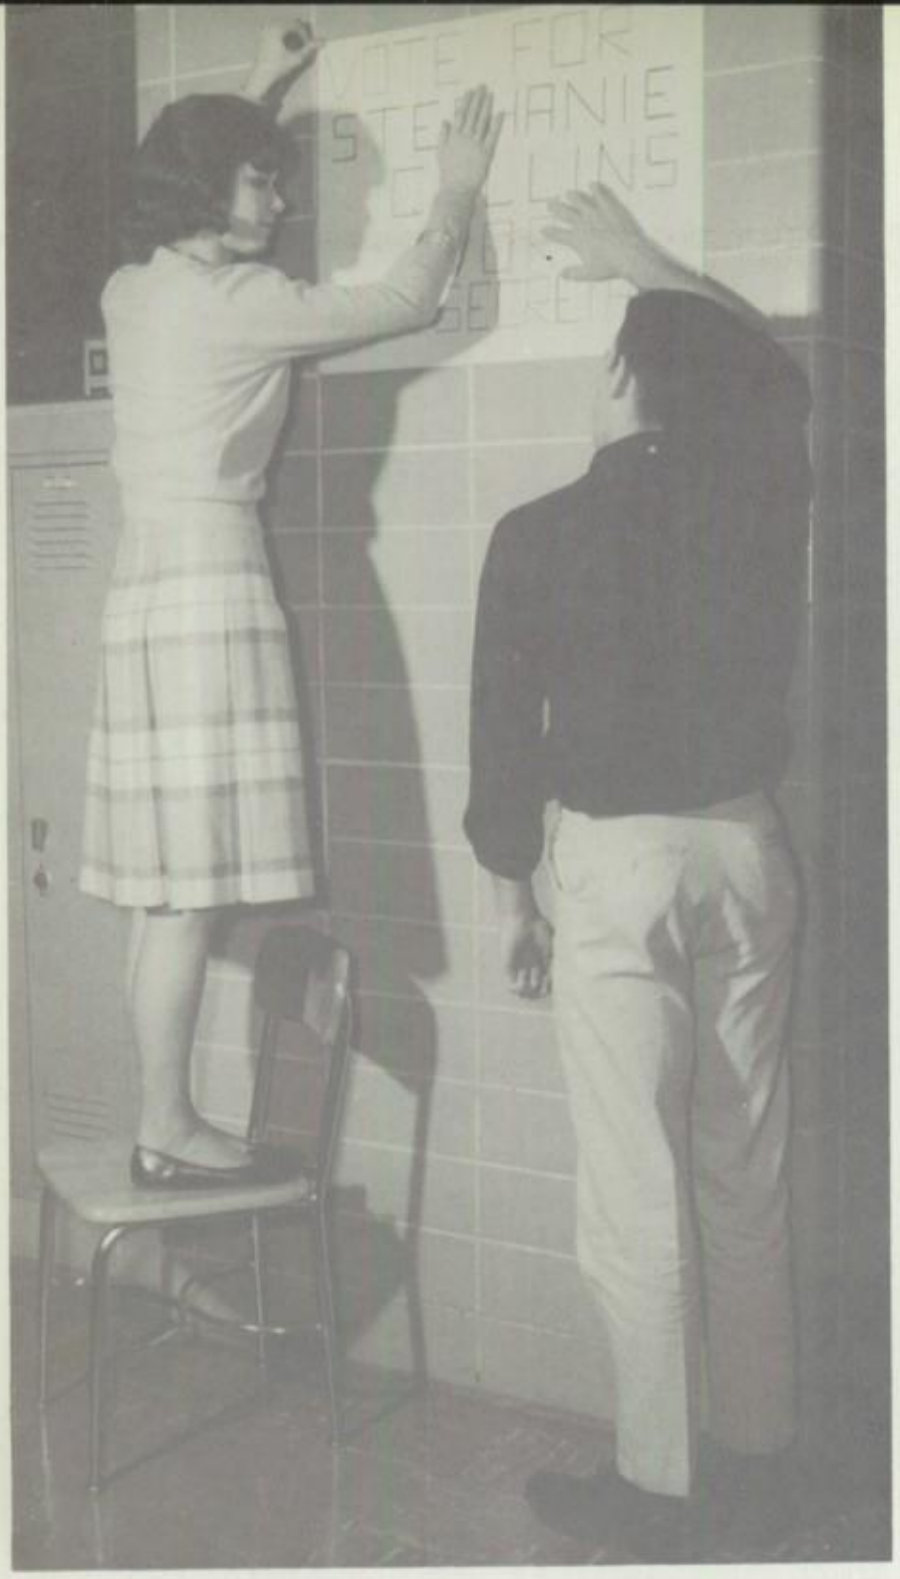
For the first time, students hear the morning bulletin over the intercom system. C. Buchholz tells homerooms of coming events.

The opinions of the student body are presented in Student Council. S. Ellertson, president, leads the club in its numerous activities.

As part of the school lunch program, milk is sold daily. Two 5A workers, D. Halmagyi and R. Jones, distribute milk to students.

G. Fiefer and S. Ellertson, senior leaders, assist in the physical education classes by teaching swimming and acting as life guards.

Keeping students well-fed is the task of the East High cafeteria. Besides planning and preparing well-balanced meals daily, these women are responsible for seeing to it that our athletic teams are fed before they travel to out-of-town games. Seated are: M. Martin, E. Schneider, F. Renner, and E. Anderson. Standing are: J. Baish, E. Renner, M. Lindenmeyer, and H. Pelzer. B. Wagner was absent when the picture was taken.



S. Collins and D. King add a new poster to the colorful collection which decorates the halls of East during every campaign week.

Every day brought new challenges to East High's populace. Entering each contest with zest, they faced. . .class and club elections for which campaign slogans were coined. . .tests which taxed the brain with history dates and mathematical formulas . . .tournaments in which the athletic teams competed with conference rivals. . .the challenge to meet their own ideal goals.

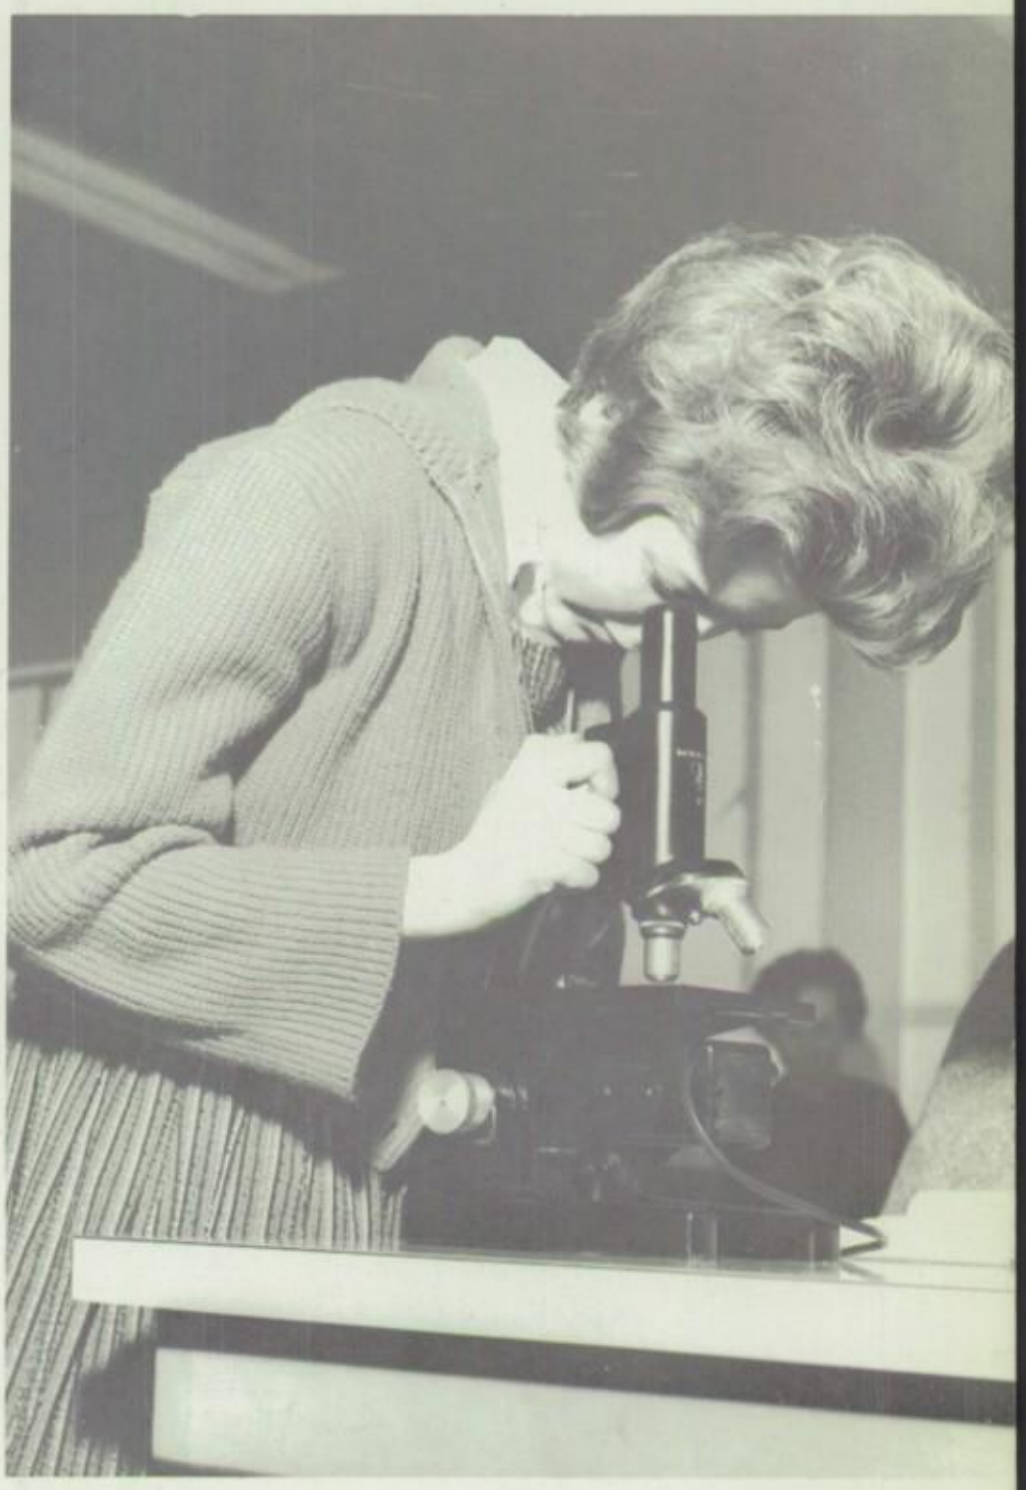
The members of the East High varsity wrestling squad challenge one another to determine who will participate in the coming meet.

Temperament and habits of small children are studied by members of the Home Nursing class in their nursery. This project was tried on an experimental basis.

Students accept challenges, prepare for future

Being able to file is a vital aspect of a business career which S. Whitmer and K. Stangl discover on their office occupations job.

The turning point between high school and the future is graduation. Prior to this occasion, East's students prepare themselves through. . .registration in one of thirty-two study programs. . .exploration into fields of interest to help choose a career. . .on-the-job experience gained through school-sponsored programs. . .student organizations which teach the rules of self-government.



Examining the mysteries of a microscopic world through a lens provides a great challenge for East High's biology students.

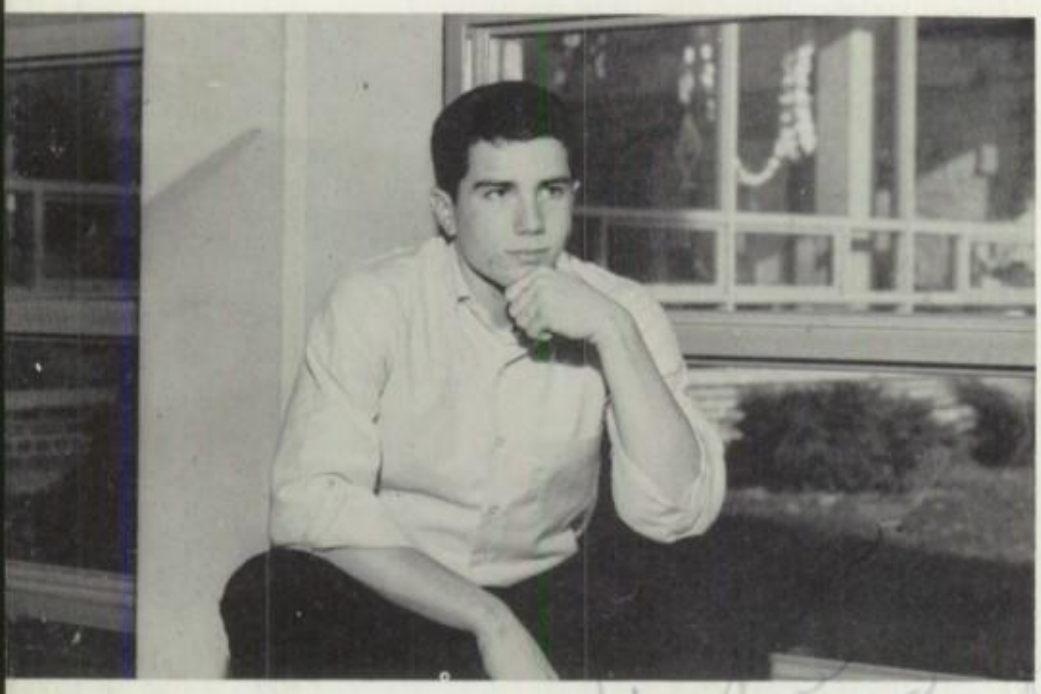
Seniors face new experiences and challenges as high school life ends.

Sounds reflect the moods of East's students



Deep meditation is shown on the face of M. Aslaksen, as he wonders what Christmas will hold for East High students.

C. Walden makes use of one of the telephones in the auditorium lobby to inform her mother of future plans in her busy schedule.

Wondering what the future will hold. East students stop on the way home from school to gaze at their reflections in the river.

As East's students pass to class or pause to chat by their lockers after school, their moods are echoed through the halls like a symphony of sounds, composed of . . . a fanfare of shouts heard at an athletic contest . . . muted whispers of worry audible before an important exam . . murmurs of expectations rumbling along before school vacations. . .the cadence of quiet meditation audible when the students look into the future . . . the tinkle of gay laughter heard at dances and parties.

East's excited students display their school spirit by cheering the Tomcat cagers on to a victory at a home basketball game.

Intent on mastering the subject, these students appear thoroughly interested in the class discussion. Thoughtful moods are conveyed

Linda,

Best wishes always. Be good & have fun this summer. Remember the fun we've had here at East. Good luck in all you do.

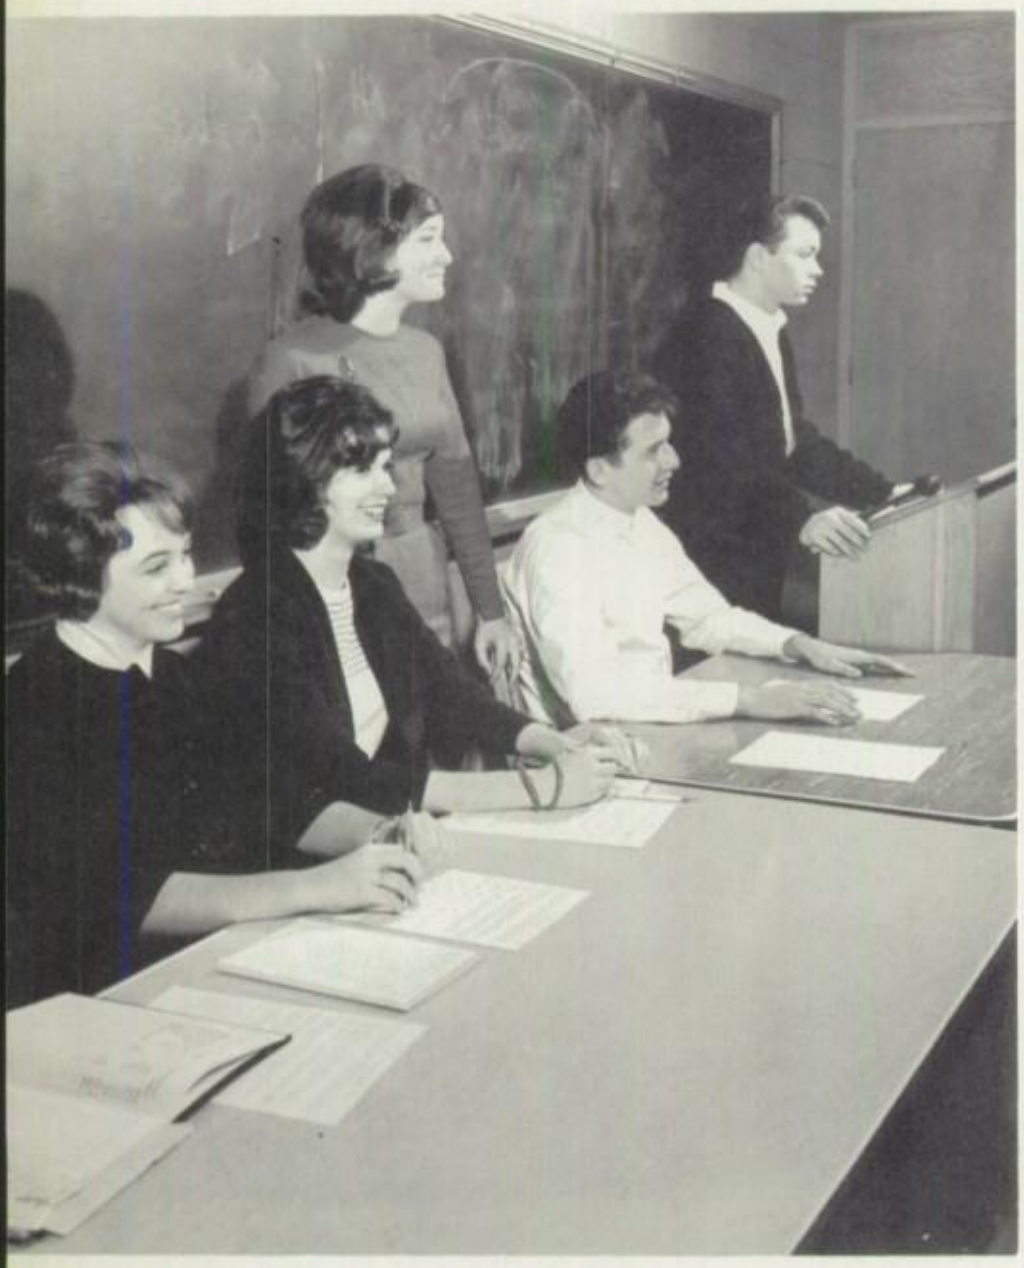
Varying emotions may be seen in the expressions of several of the members of the East Big Eight championship football squad after the last game of the season.

Dutch girl brings a touch of Holland to East



In January five juniors assumed new responsibilities as 1963-64 Student Council officers. Presiding over their first meeting are L. Moenkemeier, S. Collins, P. Kenyon, B. Cornwall, and M. Murphy.

The foreign exchange student program was inaugurated at East High in August when Rita Walvis arrived from the Netherlands. For the Student Council this was the culmination of a year's fund raising campaign. The Council continued to support the A.F.S. program by sponsoring the second Senior-Faculty game in January. Proceeds from this game will be used for next year's exchange student. Homecoming was also sponsored by Student Council. Six floats which were presented at half-time and the post-game dance centered around the theme "Say It With Music". The Who's Who was expanded to include the student's birthdays, the Alma Mater, a description of school traditions, the dress code, and a schedule of athletic events. Representatives from Student Council attended the Big-Eight Little Seven Convention, the Northeast-Northwest Convention, and the Illinois State Convention. East High was chosen as host school for the 1963 Northeast-Northwest Convention. Many plans were made for this event which will be the largest Student Council Convention in the United States. The Council also collected articles for the needy and supported a foster child. 1963-64 officers were elected in December, and they assumed the responsibilities of their offices after the inauguration assembly held in January.

1962-63 Student Council representatives; Front row: N. Eddington, R. Gruber, D. Briggs, N. Bachert, C. Strand, L. Moenkemeier, M. Streich, L. Heckman.
Second row: J. Card, B. Stoner, D. Porter, S. Hill, B. Starck, B. Enslow, M. Poss, J. Willard, F. Briggs, J. Werner, C. Starck, S. Bachert.
Third row: M. Gargo, G. Plese, B. Halling, D. Frantz, J. Brunner, A. Stills, L. Mander, L. Knoke, T. Hardison, J. Saloga, S. Reid, P. Kenyon, J. Fiefer, P. Weissenborn, S. Redick, M. Murphy.

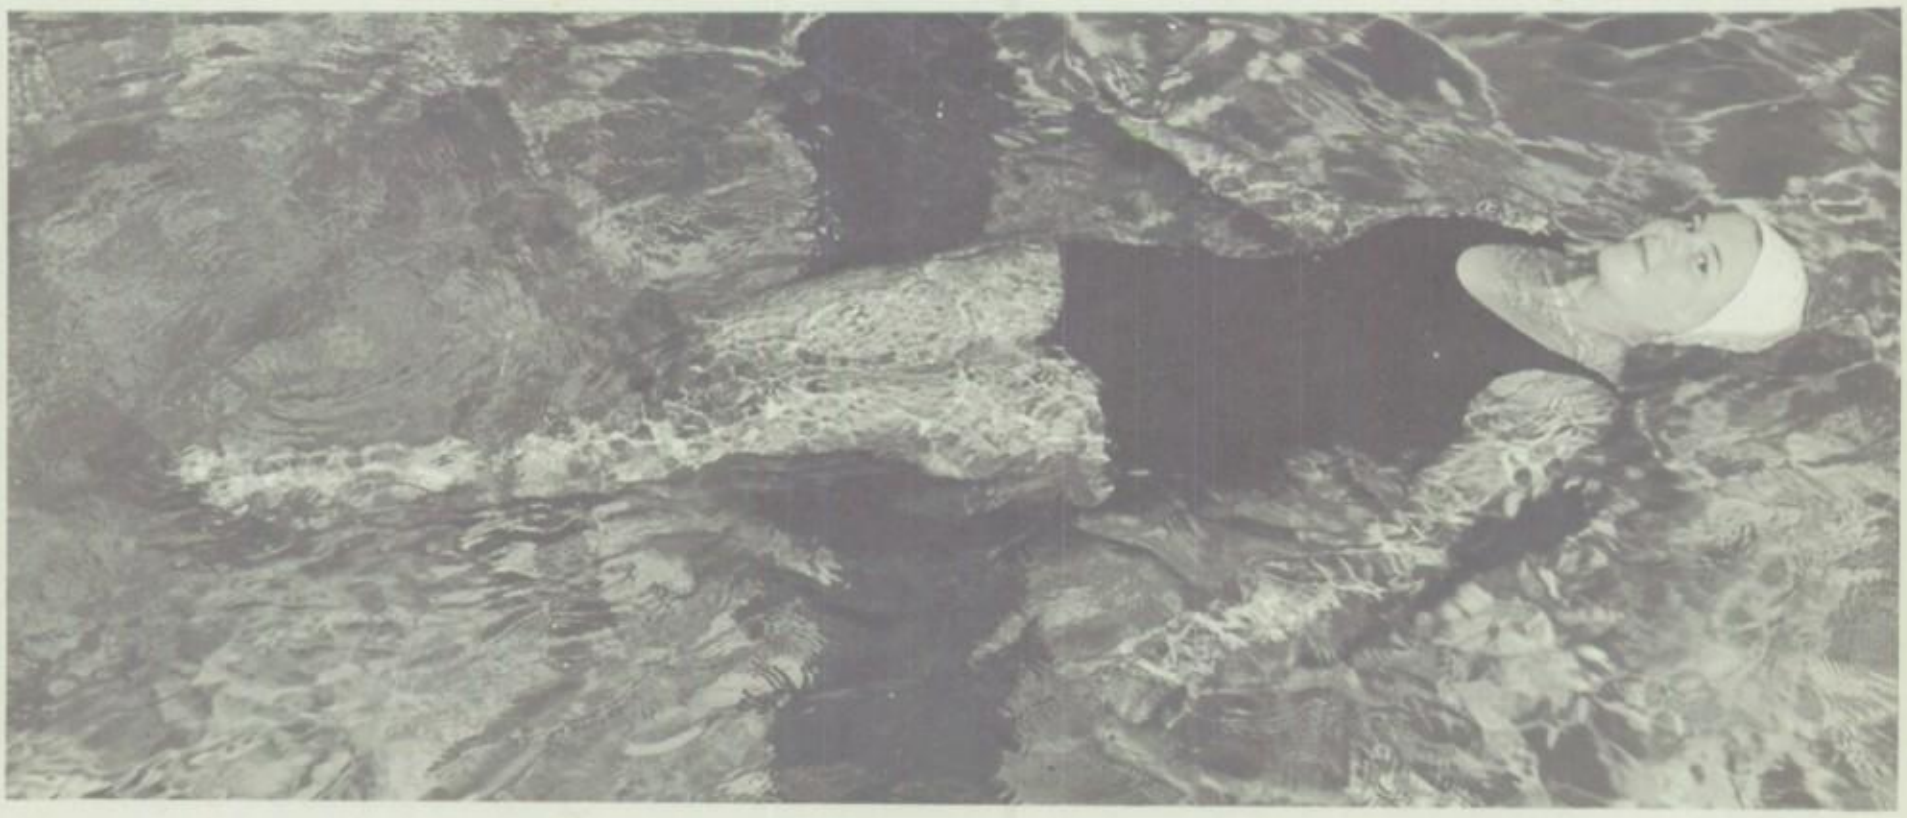
Dear Linda,
It has been wonderful knowing you. I hope you will always think of this year with as much pleasure as I will. Best of luck in everything you do. You deserve it!
Love Rita '63.

1962-63 Student Council officers, S. Ellertson, S. Metzger, and J. Battenschlag discuss the qualities of a good officer with R. Walvis.



Rita Walvis, East High's foreign exchange student, and the other members of the girls' Junior Leader class spend three weeks each semester on a swimming and water safety unit as a part of their preparation for the administration of the Red Cross life saving tests.

Northeast-Northwest convention plans are made by Mr. Hedrick, J. Saloga, Northeast-Northwest District president, and N. Bachert, secretary for the 1963 convention.

Victory brightens 1962 Homecoming festivities

Our Tomcats battled their way to victory in the 1962 Homecoming game against Elgin. Festivities at the half aptly carried out the theme "Say It With Music." Song titles were employed as ideas for float decoration. On the Senior class float "I Get a Kick Out of You" was used, and the song "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles" was adopted by G.A.A. As the floats paraded by the stands, the fans viewed Queen Sue Metzger and her court. The Queen had been crowned earlier at a pep convo organized by Student Council. At the dance following the game, many couples took advantage of the mild weather and wandered in the courts.

Reigning queen S. Metzger and attendants, L. Maendlein and D. Boedewig, beam with joy as they circle the field during the half.

Sophomores capture first place trophy in 1962 Homecoming float competition with their theme "Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Tomcat spirit is reflected in the junior class entry, "Anything You Can Do, We Can Do Better," this year's third place winner.

Two East tacklers hit an Elgin ball carrier during the annual Homecoming football game, which the Sophs won 13-6.

The purpose of Lettermen's Club is to help out at East's home athletic events. This year they served as ushers at all home basketball games and at the Regional Basketball Tournament, which was held at East High during March. Mr. Roy Fowley and Mr. Lee Witt served as this year's advisors. Lettermen voted to change East's Letter Sweater Code to permit red, black, or white bars to be worn on the sweater sleeves.

1962-63 Lettermen's Club officers are, Front row: L. Eddington and F. Neitzel. Back row: J. Newcomb and J. Lindeman.

Ushers. B. Zielke, J. Davis, and T. Vida, attempt to untangle the restraining rope preceding half time at a basketball game.

Pep Club leads in building that Tomcat spirit

Furnishing steam for East High's pep convos and athletic events was the main service of the school's five hundred Pep Club members. During Spirit Week, diligent workers hung posters, banners, and even Clyde, the club's huge stuffed dummy. In the fall, Pep Club worked in the concession stands at all home football games and chartered busses to take club members to most out-of-town games. Football pins were sold in the fall. As basketball season approached, Pep Club sponsored the sale of red and black slogan ribbons and Tomcat pins. Although any club could plan convos, Pep Club organized most of them. In the spring, the club took over the direction of the cheerleading try-outs from Student Council. Mrs. Avis Lebiecki served her first year as the club advisor.

1962 Pep Club officers S. ~~Ellerison~~ Metzger, B. Enslow, S. Reid, and D. Vincent led students in activities that bolstered school spirit.

S. Starck and R. Erickson, members of the Pep Club, ring the traditional victory bell before one of the football pep convos.

Posters are prepared by Pep Club members R. DuSell, L. Whitt, B. Enslow, and D. Kouvavas to decorate the halls for spirit week.

Busses sponsored by the Pep Club transport the enthusiastic followers of East's athletic teams to many of the Tomcats' out-of-town football and basketball games.

Enthusiastic students were entertained by East's marching band at five home football games this year. The band also marched for the United Fund Spectacular and on the West Aurora field for the East-West game. For the first time in several years, majorettes accompanied the band. These five junior girls, chosen during the spring preceding the football season, gave the students and faculty a feeling of pride in East High. The pep band helped raise school spirit with strains of "Wave the Flag" at pep convos and some home basketball games. dent body and participated in the annual winter concert on February 3. They also played for the spring concert on May 10. Another of their activities was the Fox Valley Music Festival. The rebuilding of various brass instruments has given the band members a reason to be proud of their individual instruments. Among this year's purchases were four new recording basses and several percussion instruments including a Chinese gong. Other additions in the brass section were a bass trombone and five French horns. As the final performance of their 1962-63 season, the band played for commencement exercises.

Orchestra participates in Christmas program

The filing and distributing of sheet music are included in the duties of J. Brugger and L. Carlson orchestra librarians.

Linda,
Best of luck in everything you do
and may God richly bless you.
Lynda Carlson

Intently practicing selections for a forthcoming concert are seven members of the bass and cello sections of the orchestra.

Orchestra Members: Front row: D. Koenigsberg, L. Miksa, L. Picton, A. Trotto. Second row: A. Bennett, J. Moore, President; S. Bennett, J. Bagent, J. Tyma, J. Gates. Third row: W. Rahn, W. The orchestra provided the accompaniment for the annual P.T.A. Christmas program presented in December by members of the choral and drama deapartments. The program was also given to the student body at the final assembly before Christmas vacation.

Strains from Handel, Humperdinck, and Irving Berlin floated from the instrumental room during fifth hour as the 68-piece orchestra prepared for its four public performances. Under the direction of Mr. Vincent Langlitz, the orchestra supplied musical settings, interludes, and accompaniment for the combined choirs on the "Hallelujah Chorus" at the PTA Christmas program. Having a busy spring schedule, the orchestra performed its annual Children's Concert and Spring Concert and presented a school assembly. the first assembly given by the orchestra in the present East High School building. Besides the daily rehearsals, each string section had a weekly meeting with the director. During this time, difficult passages were smoothed out and new material was read. Acoustical improvements were made in the instrumental room, and the first step in soundproofing the seven two-unit practice rooms was completed. After many weeks of preparation, soloists, duos, and ensembles competed in the State Music Contest. East High orchestra was host to the participating schools in the Fox Valley Music Festival and also attended a musical in Chicago. At the fine arts assembly, the NSOA Orchestra Award was presented to the outstanding musician.

Members of A Cappella choir participate in "The waving wheat, it sure smells sweet. . ." East High's A Cappella Choir, under the driection of Mr. Roy J. O'Neil, presented Rodger's and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma" as their annual spring musical. Tryouts began in January and roles were announced in the middle of February. The combined effort of A Cappella Choir, Boys' Glee Club, and Girls' Glee Club reached its climax early in April with three evening performances and a matinee for East's students. Entertainment was provided for members of the P.T.A. at their Christmas program by the choirs and the orchestra. The same program was presented to the student body in an all-school assembly before the students were dismissed for Christmas vacation. Another activity of East's choral groups was the annual May Music Night. At the end of the year, the A Cappella Choir participated in the baccalaureate program.

A Cappella choir members T. Rukas, S. Jacob, and M. Leonard read lines from "Oklahoma" scripts during a class tryout period.

The Boys' Glee Club quartet, consisting of F. Does, R. Cully, R. Lambert, and T. Ireland rehearse before May Music Night.

Members of East High's choral groups exhibited their talents in their presentation of "Oklahoma". Under the direction of Mr. C. William Spence, Girls' Glee Club and Boys' Glee Club assisted the A Cappella choir with its fourth annual spring musical. The Christmas season was also one of the busiest time of the year for East's musical groups. Sophomore Choir presented a special program at Sunnymere to provide holiday spirit and to cheer its residents. Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs participated in the P.T.A. program, which was also viewed at an all school assembly by the student body. Members of Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs caroled during the lunch hours preceding the Christmas vacation. With the spring season came the concert season. The Sophomore Choir took part in the spring concert on March 10. Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs participated in the Fox Valley Music Festival along with the A Cappella Choir. Aurorans were further entertained by the choirs at the annual May Music Night. Included in the program were several selections from the spring musical "Oklahoma". Both the Sophomore Choir and the Boys' Glee Clubs visited Clifton F. Simmons and K. D. Waldo Junior High Schools, where they participated in a choral exchange program. Despite the smaller than average enrollment, East's Choirs performed a full year of concerts, productions, and programs.

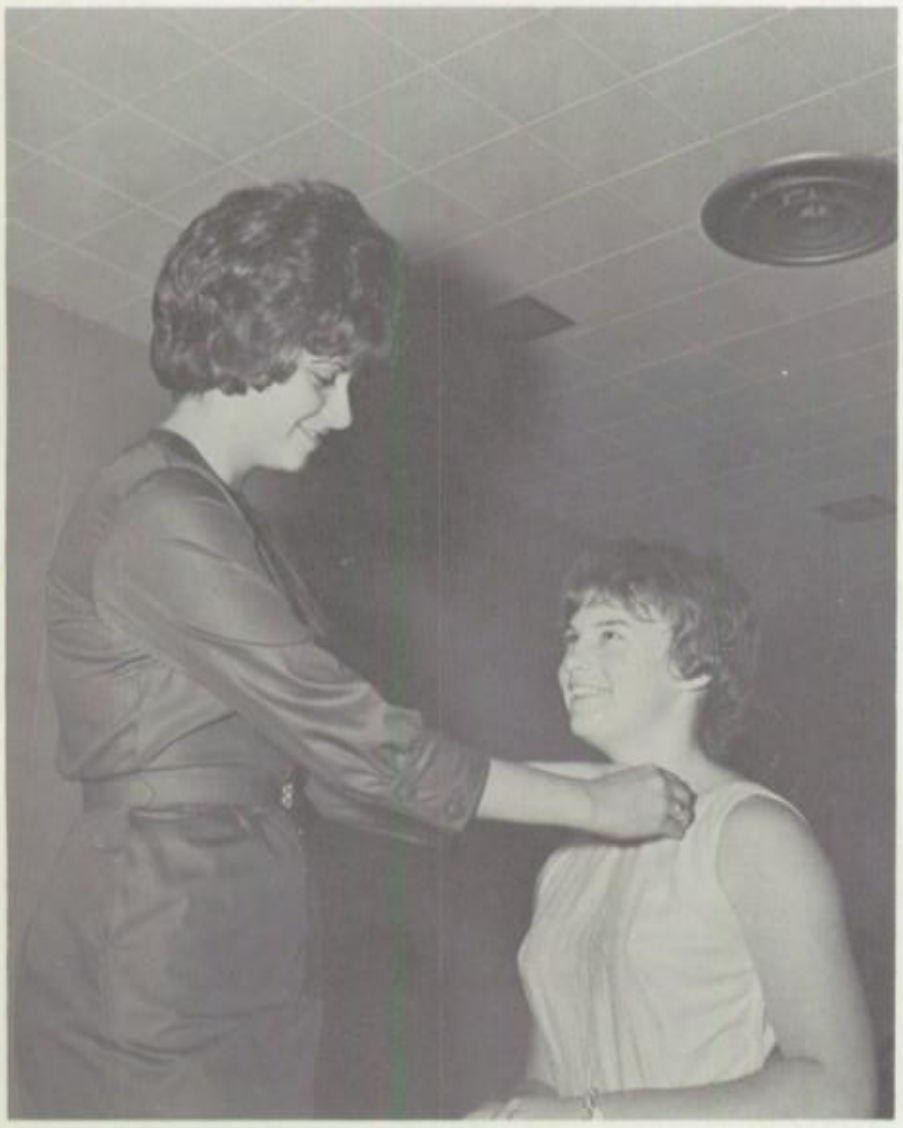
Girls' Club initiates Heart-sis Week, taffy pull



"Someday I'll be a senior," sighs sophomore M. Streich as she gazes with admiration at her senior "big sister," B. Elsworth.

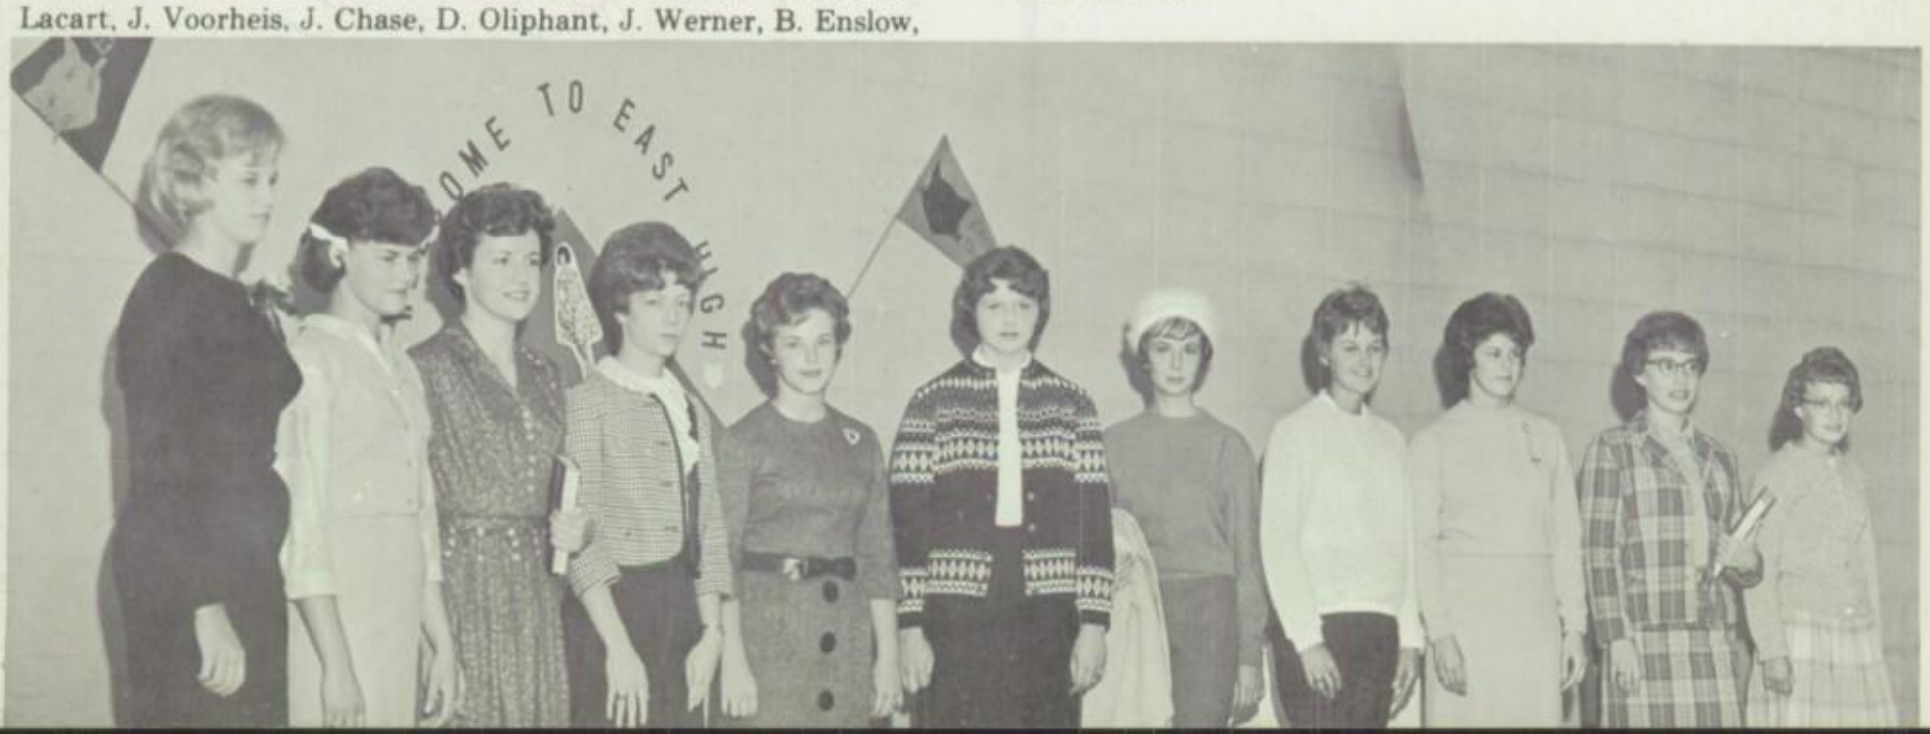
Ivy Day is planned under the direction of the newly elected Girls' Club officers J. Truemper, R. Gruber, J. Pillatsch, C. Buchholz.

Voices heard over the telephone were matched with faces as "big sisters" met their "little sisters" during the first week of school. As part of the Girls' Club Big-Little Sister program, a tea and style show helped to familiarize the sophomore girls with customs and traditions at East as well as with their newly adopted sisters. Friendliness between all girls was promoted through the newly initiated Heart-Sis Week. During the week thoughtful courtesies were performed by each "Heart Sis." The event was climaxed by a potluck dinner at which the identity of each unknown sister was revealed. Enthusiastic homeroom representatives sold stationery with the picture of East High in blue duotone. The Girls' Club 1962 Homecoming float was "Slaughter on Fifth Avenue." An old-fashioned Christmas tree and a Christmas party where the girls were entertained by faculty members added to holiday festivities. Volunteers who entered the Coplette program aided the nurses at Copley Memorial Hospital. The new year saw the inauguration of the 1963-64 officers, the traditional observance of Bow Week, and the anticipation of the Turnabout Dance.

Participating in the Coplette program proved a valuable experience for L. Mander and other East High girls in this volunteer service.

Ornamenting the Girls' Club tree provided fun for the club's 1962-63 officers R. Dragoun, J. Gaspar, S. Starck, and D. Koenigsberg, and their advisor Miss Schuster.

At the Girls' Club tea and style show for sophomore girls and their "big sister," seniors, S. Ellertson, N. Simmons, C. Abel, E. Lacart, J. Voorheis, J. Chase, D. Oliphant, J. Werner, B. Enslow, B. Hardt, and R. DuSell model clothes appropriate for any East High activity.



The debut of the new football scoreboard was the highlight of the year for Boys' Club. After many hours of organizing their ideas, collecting money from other East High organizations, and browsing through catalogs, their goal was achieved. This work was done during the 1961-62 school year so that the students could enjoy the board this fall. In the fall Boys' Club sponsored the fifth-quarter dance after the Tomcat-East Rockford football game. The boys also staffed the concession stand and cloakrooms at one of East's home basketball games. Funds raised by these projects helped finance the inauguration party. Boys' and Girls' Clubs jointly sponsored the event, which took place late in January. The supervision of the parking lot was a major Boys' Club project this year. The parking lot committee assisted by Mr. Aaron Albright, the club advisor, issued permit stickers for 425 student and 160 faculty cars. Boys' Club also sold circular Tomcat stickers.

One of the profit-making activities of the Boys' Club is the sale of Tomcat decals. J. Reiland sells one to J. Jess during lunch hour.

Boys' Club advisor, Mr. Albright, discusses club business with the 1962 and 1963 officers, D. Ray, J. Chudzick, J. Bradford, D. Kreitz, and R. Stutz. Absent: R. Hester, D. Oestreicher, and R. Simmons.

The sub-varsity and beginning debate teams meet with Mr. DeBoalt to plan for a tournament. The squads include; seated: N. Gieck, J. Miller, P. Deutsch, P. Fatten, A. Hoover, and K. Stangl. Standing: Mr. DeBoalt, W. Gatske, C. Clark, J. Rabenberg, and L. Dimond. The beginners and sub-varsity participated in several debate tournaments which were held at schools in and around the Aurora area.

Fifteen tournaments entered by debate squad

"Resolved: that the United States should promote a common market for the Western Hemisphere" was the national debate topic for the 1962-63 school year. The members of East's varsity squad participated in over sixty rounds of debate. Fifteen tournaments were entered this year, including those held at Illinois State Normal University, Northwestern University, North Chicago, and Evanston. East also sent representatives to the Big Eight and N.F.L. District tournaments. The team is a member of the Metropolitan Debate Union, which is composed of sixteen schools in Illinois and Indiana. Two debaters represented East High on "Rebuttal." The debate squads were coached by Mr. James B. Jennings and Mr. David DeBoalt. The beginning and sub-varsity debate squads entered many of the tournaments which were attended by the varsity. Near the end of the school year, the annual frosh-soph debate tournament was held at East. The debate squad also hosted the participants in the spring session of the N.F.L. student congress, which is patterned after the United States Congress.

Braving cold weather, varsity debaters: M. Nelson, K. MacDonald, J. Gaspar, Mr. Jennings, J. Miller, and W. Hawkinson leave on a trip.

F.N.A. and Jr. Red Cross benefit community

Jr. Red Cross officers, G. Chambers, M. Bowker, C. Connaway, and G. Foster, pack Christmas cookies for the veterans' hospital.

Representatives to the Junior Red Cross had a busy year. Their activities included making table favors, packing gift boxes, and collecting dues. As Christmas time neared, the students made cards to be used by the patients at Hines Veterans' Hospital in filling their card lists. At the same time they were collecting cookies to be distributed to the various hospitals in this area. A city-wide council meeting was attended by several East High members. Through this meeting the students acquired new ideas and became better acquainted with members of the other units in Aurora. All of these activities were carried on under the direction of Miss Eleanor Dollins, sponsor of the East High organization.

As she demonstrates the proper way to fill an ice bag, F.N.A. member, J. Stephenson, explains the procedure to J. Chase.

Miss Dollins, L. Moenkemeier, and J. Williams put the finishing touches on Christmas cards for the Downey Veterans' Hospital.

Many students found a program that suited their interests in Future Nurses of America. Fourteen members received a close look at nursing on a trip to the Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital and the Illinois Research Center in early December. A possible site for future training, St. Luke's School of Nursing, was also toured at this time. Supplementing the program were films and special speakers. Representatives from the schools of nursing at Elkhart University and Northern Illinois University were interviewed by the students. Miss GraceMatteson, club advisor, and F.N.A. officers planned the year's program.

Heading the F.N.A. at East are its officers, R. Wesbrock, Miss Matteson, advisor, J. Chase, R. Dragoun, and C. Connaway.

Science club features projects and activities

A tour of the science department of Northern Illinois University highlighted the program of the science club, East Aurora Scientists and Technicians. Advisors for the group were Mr. Joseph Reynolds, Mr. John Harth, and Mr. Vernon Deason. Movies, speakers, and projects were provided for the members. Among the projects prepared for the annual science fair were the making of an artificial ruby and the mapping of the human brain. Movies dealing with all branchs of science were shown at the club meetings. The purpose of E.A.S.T. is to interest the students in research. It also serves to acquaint them with phases of science in which they may want to work.

Many projects and experiments were developed by the members of E.A.S.T., the science club. The activities had a dual purpose: to aid the students in understanding materials that were presented to them and to further their enjoyment. B. Komadina makes a synthetic ruby for display in the annual science fair.

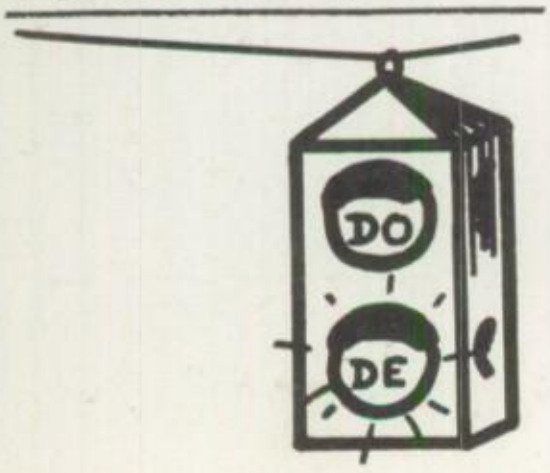
D.E., D.O. classes gain business experience

Basic principles of retailing and merchandising are emphasized for the students who participate in the D.E. program at East.

M. Heiman and B. Stevens, D.O. class members, receive training which enables them to enter positions in industry after graduation.

Diversified Occupations and Distributive Education classes gave some East students the opportunity to gain on-the-job experience. D.O. offered an apprenticeship type of training. Each student had the opportunity to learn about his chosen occupation while earning a learner's wage and attending school. This year East was one of sixteen schools to send representatives from D.O. classes to the Northeastern Area Student Conference. East's D.E. program was designed to prepare students who plan on entering the fields of selling, merchandising, and advertising. Fifteen hours a week of on-the-job work is included in this course. In Cinema, students were trained to operate movie projectors, film strip machines, record players, and tape recorders. They also learned how to repair this audio-visual equipment. Cinema workers aided Mr. Raymond Trembacki in ordering and scheduling films.



In addition to learning the correct method of operating filmstrip projectors. Cinema students make many repairs on the machines they use. R. Jensen checks the tone quality of a movie projector.

Cadet teaching introduced to F.T.A. members

Future Teachers of America were able to cadet teach in elementary classrooms this year for the first time. Through this experience, the student teachers acquired valuable knowledge about their chosen profession. In the fall F.T.A. members built their second homecoming float,, "Our Noted Talents." Sponsoring a fifth-quarter dance, working in concession stands, and revising their constitution were projects undertaken with the supervision of Mr. Raymond Trembacki, new F.T.A. advisor. The prospective teachers viewed college life while spending a weekend at the University of Illinois and visiting other college campuses. Major events of the year were the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the national Future Teachers of America and the state convention at Springfield, Illinois.

F.T.A. officers of 1962-63 are N. Schermerhorn, P. Miller, H. Herbst, L. Miksa, J. Truemper, and Mr. Trembacki, advisor.

An F.T.A. cadet teacher--H. Herbst, finds teaching third graders is rewarding as she keeps their attention with a story.

S. Holt and A. Ostergren add the Finishing touches to F.T.A.'s Christmas showcase, one of many festive holiday decorations.

The red-inked holiday issue of the Auroran is edited before vacation.

"Can I turn my story in tomorrow? I just couldn't find any information." "My name was misspelled in the last issue!" "Hey, you left my name off the honor roll list." Confronted with comments like these, the ten AURORAN editors and their new advisor, Mr. Spence, faced the challenge of publishing East's four page, bi-weekly newspaper. An enthusiastic outlook and many original ideas resulted in four new columns: "Library Lights," "Holland Impressions," "College Campus," and "Heard About This." A staff of sixty-seven reporters helped the editors report the news and views of school life at East High. Early in the fall Mr. Spence and the editors began work on "The Talk of the Town," the annual variety show which was presented in November. Almost two hundred students participated in the student-directed production. Festive six-page issues for which any student could donate stories appeared at Christmas and Easter.

Variety show and plan special holiday issues

R. Meyer, D. Jess, R. Panzer, D. Heidelberg, and M. Murphy entertain in a nightclub atmosphere for the Variety Show.

The active members of Thespian Troupe 2097, East High's drama club for 1962-1963 include; front row: J. Feierabend, S. Stiller, H. Bourtzos, R. Issler, J. Card. Back row: D. Rauscher, D. Larson, W. Armbrust, J. Gaspar, Mr. Almquist, advisor, and D. Senneke.

Thespians stage first all-member production

Thespian Troup 2097 undertook the production of a one-act expressionistic comedy, "Orphee," which was presented February 22. This was the first all-Thespian play ever presented at East High. The producers, directors, and actors were picked from the active members of the drama club. Proceeds from "Orphee" were used for expenses for the annual Thespian banquet held in Chicago. Thespian points were given for participation in "Orphee," "Oklahoma," "George Washington Slept Here," and "Objective Case," East's speech contest entry. Students who accumulated fifteen points were initiated in November or May. The Thespians sponsored "Cupid's Countdown," the fifth-quarter dance following the Tomcat-West Rockford basketball game. Throughout the year the Thespians were in charge of renting the auditorium to local civic and religious organizations.

Part of becoming a full-fledged Thespian member includes being initiated. H. Bourtzos and S. Stiller seem to remember their own initiation as they "welcome" D. Rauscher and J. Feierabend.

Linda
Just my most heartfelt thanks for your help in homeroom these past two years, may I wish you nothing but happiness.

Satan's battle against the world is symbolized in "Orphee." Atmosphere is created by the use of translucent masks and mysterious props. The all-Thespian cast includes D. Larson and A. Hoover, pictured in the poison scene. Proceeds went toward the spring banquet.

A. Hoover and D. Senneke argue over a rock which will hasten the coming of "Glazier." Watching the action from behind her stable door is another member of Thespians' "Orphee" cast, S. Stiller.

Busy Spec. staff meets deadlines year round

Directions, decisions, and deadlines were on the minds of the Speculum staff members throughout the year. Early in the fall the staff decided on this year's theme "East In All Directions." Decisions had to be made concerning the colored endsheet, the color of the yearbook, and the design for the cover. As each of the four deadlines neared, times became very hectic. Editor-in-chief, Donna Koenigsberg, and Elenore Lacart, associate editor, got a preview of their work at the Journalism Institute at Indiana University. Mrs. Jeanette Hess, Speculum advisor, and five staff members learned more about layouts, covers, and cover-writing at the High School Press Association Convention in September. Members of the Speculum business staff under the direction of Mr. Francis Spurlock, were just as busy as the editorial staff with their jobs. They supervised the cash sales of the yearbook to students, faculty, and local businessmen. The business staff also had to notify past patrons that there would be no patron drive this year. A change from letter-press to off-set printing saved as much money as was made by the patron drive.

Co-manuscript editors, H. Herbst and S. Jacob, type copy as N. Kinton, literary editor, explains a change to sports editor, D. King.

Writing captions and heads, proofreading copy, and drawing tricollates are part of the job of staff members: T. Heggen, G. Daraban, P. Miller, C. Moser, K. MacDonald, S. Holt, and D. Renner. In addition, the staff assisted the editors. Absent: T. Hardison.

E. Lacart, associate editor, draws tri-collates, while D. Koenigsberg, editor-in-chief, discusses layouts with Mrs. J. Hess, advisor.

Making ends meet financially is the chief duty of the Business staff. Due to the elimination of the annual patron drive, the staff was cut to six members: R. McWilliams, J. Stephenson, Advisor Mr. Spurlock, R. Wesbrock, J. Reiland, and G. Lapsa. Absent: S. Stiller.

Art editor D. Briggs draws as B. Starck and J. Battenschlag, photography editors, crop pictures.

A little learning

is a dangerous thing.

Alexander Pope

From 8:00 in the morning until the dismissal bell rings at 3:17, we all concentrate our brain power on our studies. We are not limited to textbooks nor confined to the classroom atmosphere. Instead, we are world-wide even space-wide, travelers and may go wherever our lessons stray. Walking down Stratford on Avon with William Shakespeare or eavesdropping on the neighbors in "Our Town" can be accomplished within an hour. We muse over the possibilities of a space trip to explore the planets for ourselves. With the aid of books, star charts, and professional help from teachers, even this trip is not impossible. Journeying to Mexico via the language laboratory, we test our Spanish on a pretty senorita. We can even travel backwards through time and watch the developments that formed our nation. When the day's travels are finished, our guides, better known as East's faculty, bring us back to our home base to await another day's embarkation in all directions.

Advanced courses present new challenge for Handling burning phosphorous with a wire gauge and tongs is D. Lippold, while his lab partner, D. Frantz, looks on with interest. This is one of the many experiments performed by students in Chemistry I classes under the direction of Mr. Deason and Mr. Reynolds.

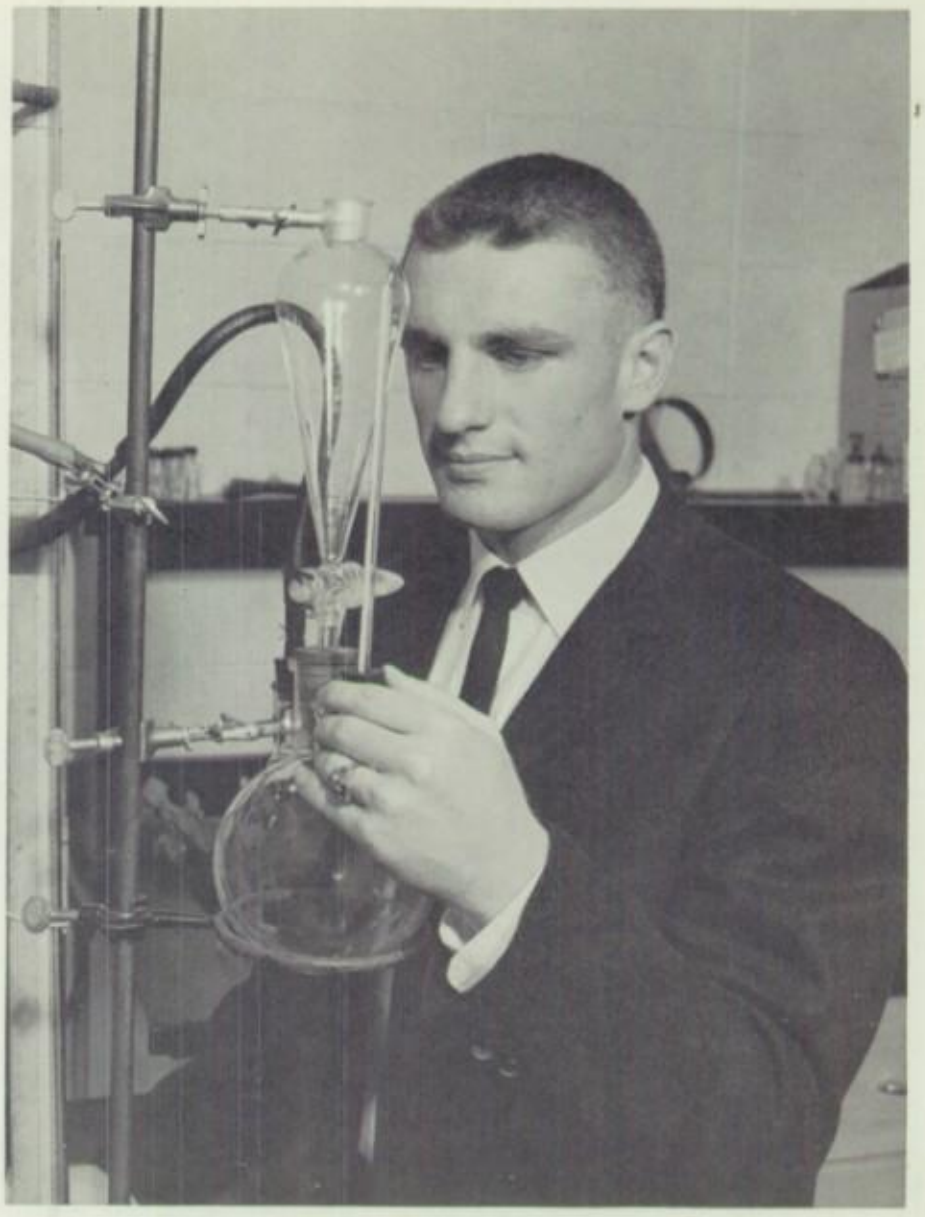
Measuring adhesions are K. Collins and G. Gerberich, two of the members of Mr. Harth's advanced chemistry class.

C. Parker demonstrates the correct method of determining the carbon dioxide content of natural limestone.

East's science students

Two new courses, Biology III and Chemistry III, were oriented in the science department this year. These were designed to bridge the gap between high school and college classes for students who have real interest in science. Chemistry III students worked in teams studying the atomic theory and performing experiments to measure intermolecular forces. There was no set of problems for the course, and students had to devise their own experiments and adapt their equipment to them. The biological structure of the cell, the chemistry of biological action, and the chemistry of genetics were included in Biology III, which was team-taught by Mr. Harth and Mr. Dufrain. It served as an application of the concepts learned in the first years of biology, chemistry, and physics. In the fall Biology I classes made their annual collections of insects. Spring brought the study of the human body and the collection and classification of leaves. The structure of atoms and changes caused by chemical reactions were stressed in Chemistry I and II classes. College bound juniors and seniors learned the principles of physics. The Annual Aurora Foundation Science Fair gave East High students an opportunity to join with students from four area high schools in displaying what they had learned.



B. Martin determines the vapor pressure of various liquids as one of his advanced projects required in Chemistry III.

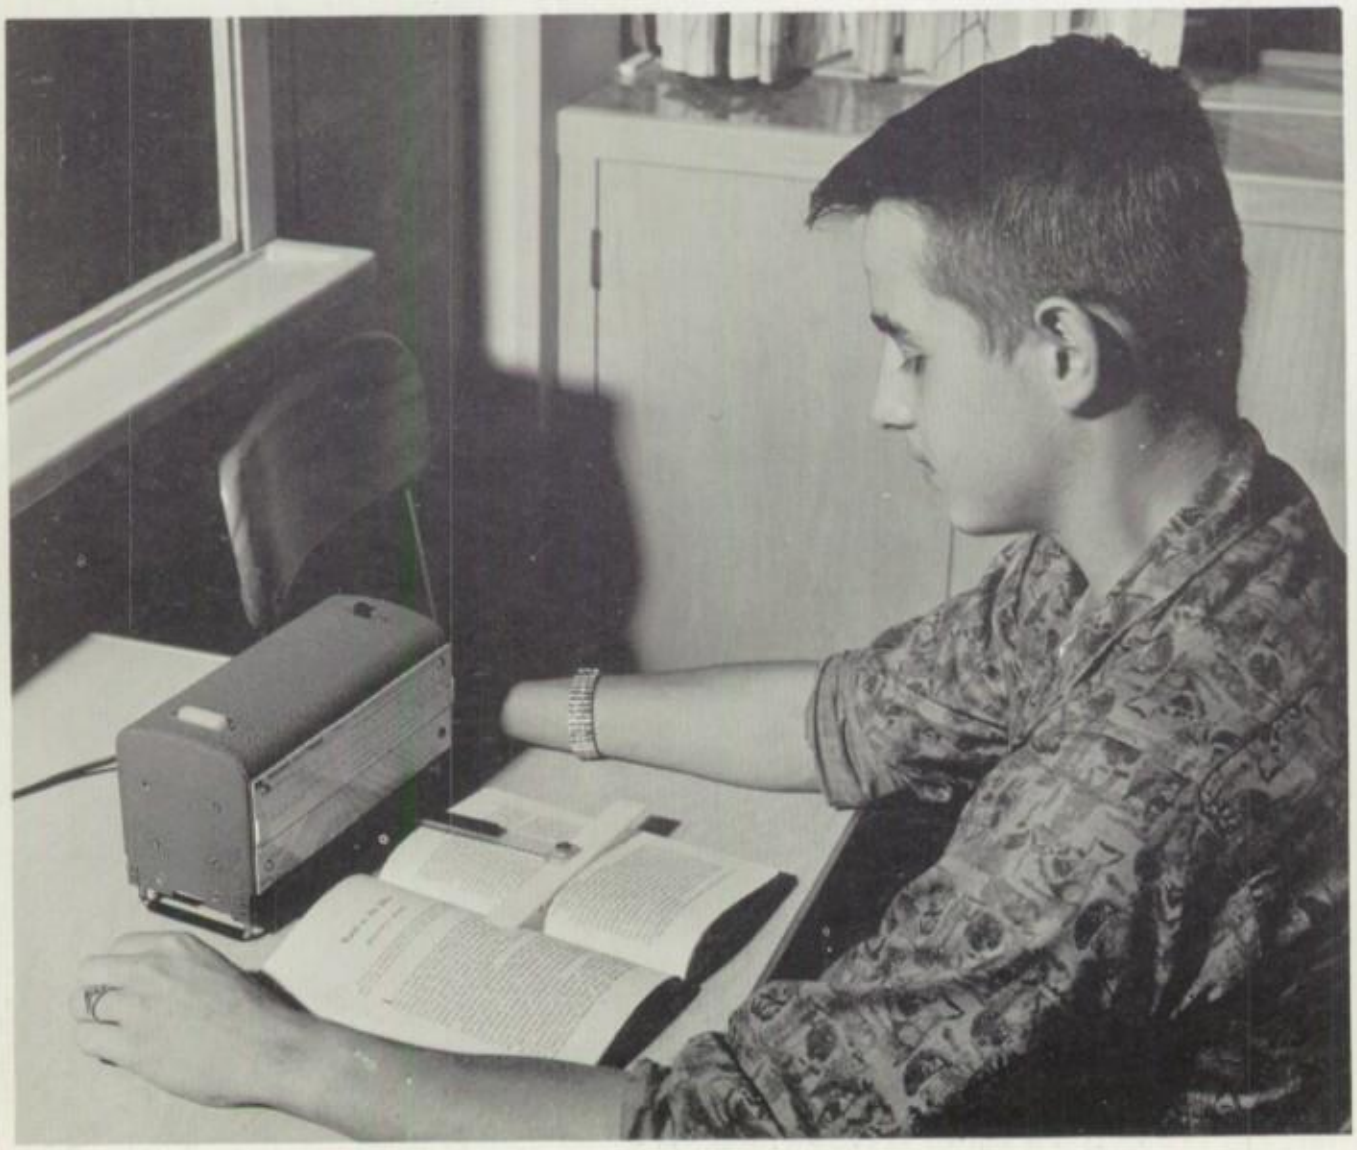
Sophomores learn advanced reading methods

The reference section of East High's library proves helpful to J. Fischer as she prepares notes for English Literature class.

English at East High reflected a new look this year. For the first time sophomore English classes spent ten weeks in the developmental reading lab, learning to read faster and to better comprehend what they read. Also to help students become better readers, the reading of paperback books was encouraged by the English teachers. Sophomores were furnished with food for the mind when they found themselves reading and terpreting Julius Caesar and Silas Marner. Public speaking ability was developed in speech classes while improvement in grammar principles was stressed through theme writing. College and non-college bound classes continued at the junior and senior level. In American Literature, first semester college bound juniors gained a better understanding of American authors and writings. In the second semester they selected either creative writing, journalism, or rhetoric. Those juniors who selected journalism were eligible to be on the staff of the Auroran or the Speculum. Senior college bound classes again experienced team teaching in English Literature and rhetoric. Students in these classes spent alternate weeks in large groups of about eighty students and small groups of twenty. Seniors interested in business careers found Business English helpful.



With the aid of a rateometer sophomore English student, N. Rebenstorf, calculates the rate of his reading speed.

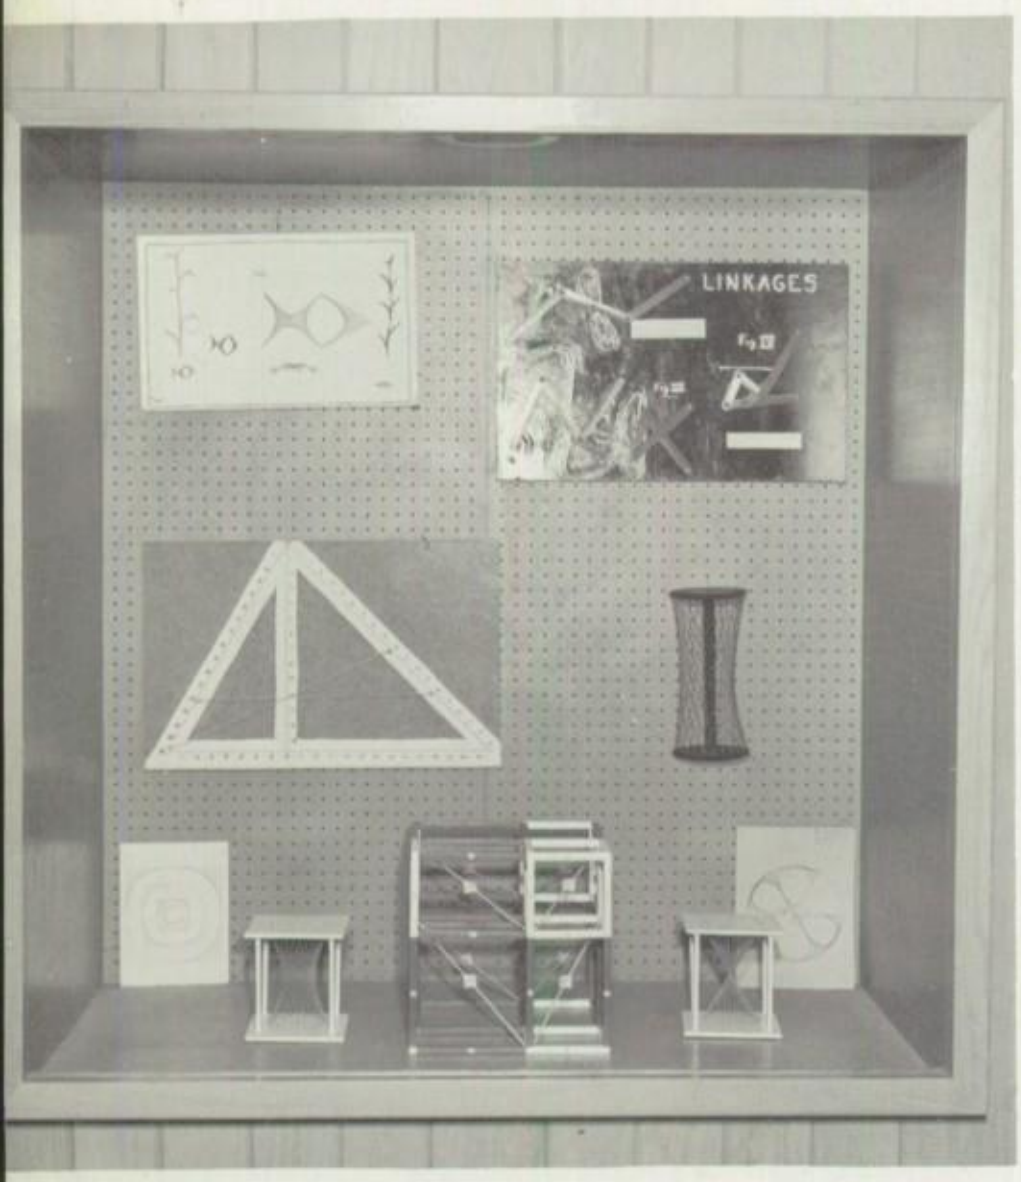
Miss C. Knutson, a new teacher at East this year, supervises this class with their study of Spanish. She can advise students individually on pronunciation of the language by the use of the console on her desk. Tapes allow students to hear themselves speak the language.

Audio-lingual material aids language classes

Many new materials and three new teachers were added to East's foreign language department this year. More extensive use of the language laboratory was made after it was equipped with a projection room this past summer. The films and slides were viewed on a new overhead screen as the sound was transmitted to the headsets in each booth. The use of audio-lingual material was introduced in the Spanish and German classes as Latin students continued using regular textbooks. This year's increased enrollment in the language classes made use of a new opaque projector, several new reference books, larger maps, colorful filmstrips and a slide projector. Third-year German came to life, as for the first time a class of nineteen enjoyed German records and taped interviews with German people. These were acquired by Mr. Mittag, chairman of the language department, while he toured Germany last summer. Students in language classes mastered not only the grammar and spoken language of a country; they investigated its history, culture, geography and politics as well. The contributions of each country to world civilization were also discussed. During Foreign Language Week all East High students were enlightened about our foreign neighbors through displays arranged by the language department.

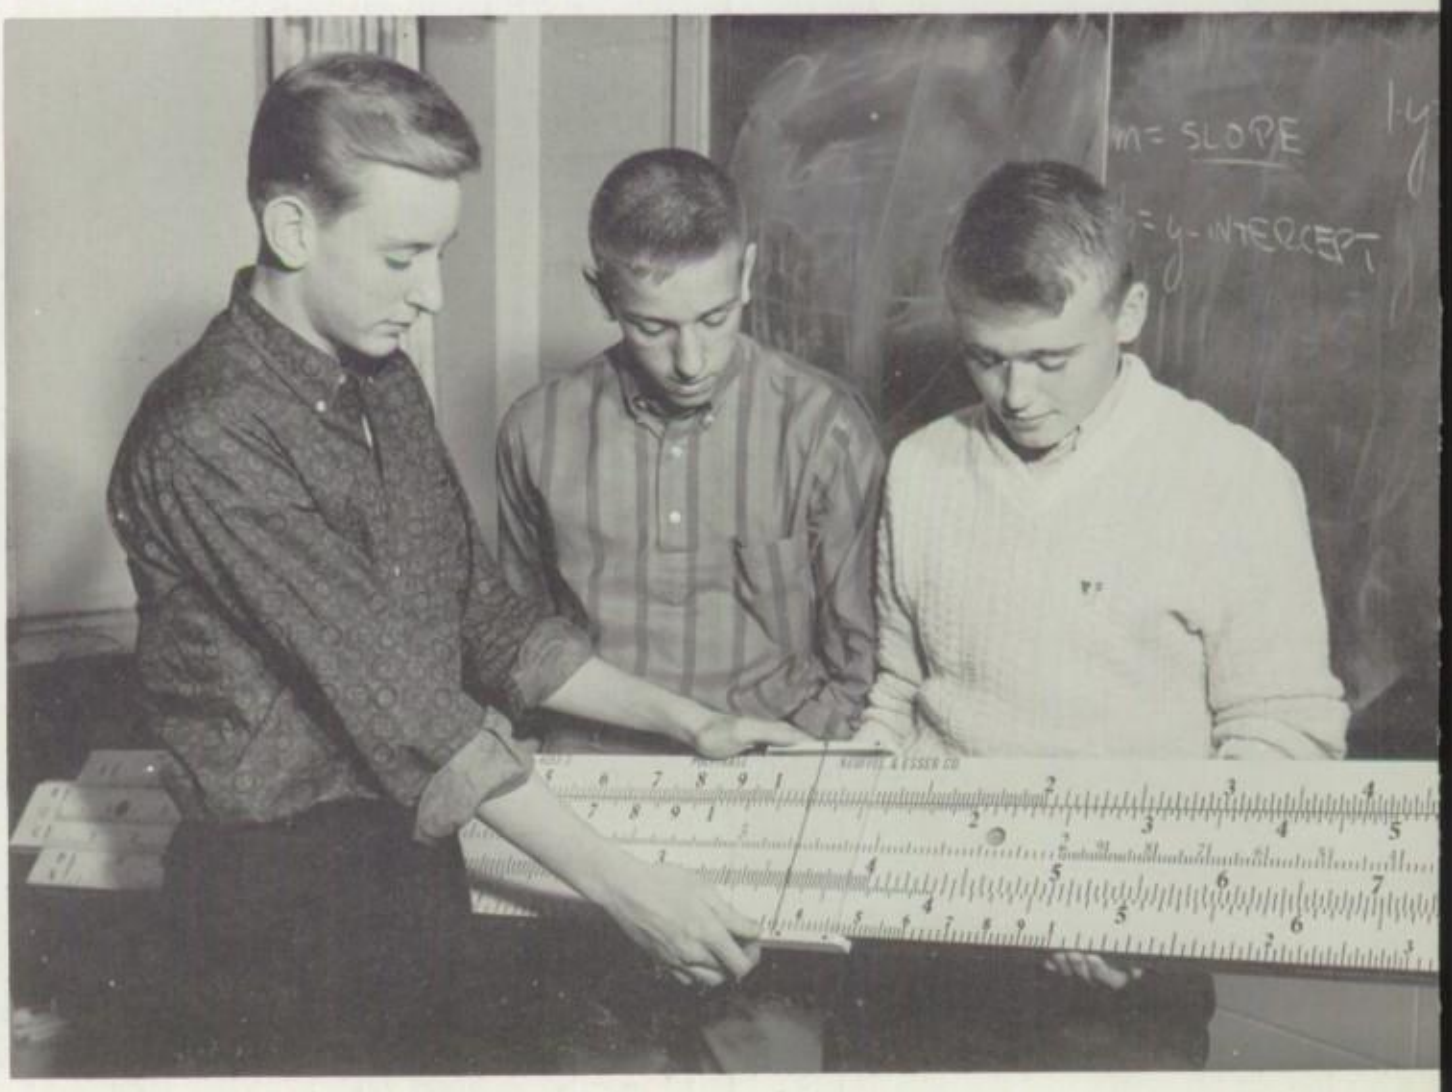
In addition to studying grammar, German students concentrate on customs and traditions of the country. L. Stewart points out some of the characteristics of a German dwelling to Mr. Mittag.

Modern textbooks utilized by geometry classes



Students in algebra and geometry classes put their knowledge to work in projects displayed in the mathematics showcase.

New paperback texts were used in Geometry I and II classes this year. Through these texts 300 students pondered the Pythagorean theorem and trigonometric functions. In Algebra III the material included in first year algebra was reviewed. Algebra IV students explored logarithms and number sequences in the second semester. In a more advanced course, Senior Math, phases of trigonometry, solid and analytical geometry, statistics and a limited amout of calculus were undertaken. This two semester course aids seniors in achieving advanced standing in college math courses. For those students who are not sure that they will attend college and wish to review their math, a refresher math course was offered. Two additional, more unique, courses involving math are Surveying, which calls for a working knowledge in trigonometry, and Aviation, a one semester course for seniors. People enrolled in this course deal with meteorology, fundamentals of navigation and the theory of flight. Two new teachers were introduced into East's math department: Mr. Donald Case, the new department head, and Miss Donna Constantine. Also new this year was an experimental math class, which began in the junior highs and is now part of our East High curriculum. Future innovations in this department may include accelerated classes for those who are above average in mathematics. East's students will be offered challenging experiences through this new program.

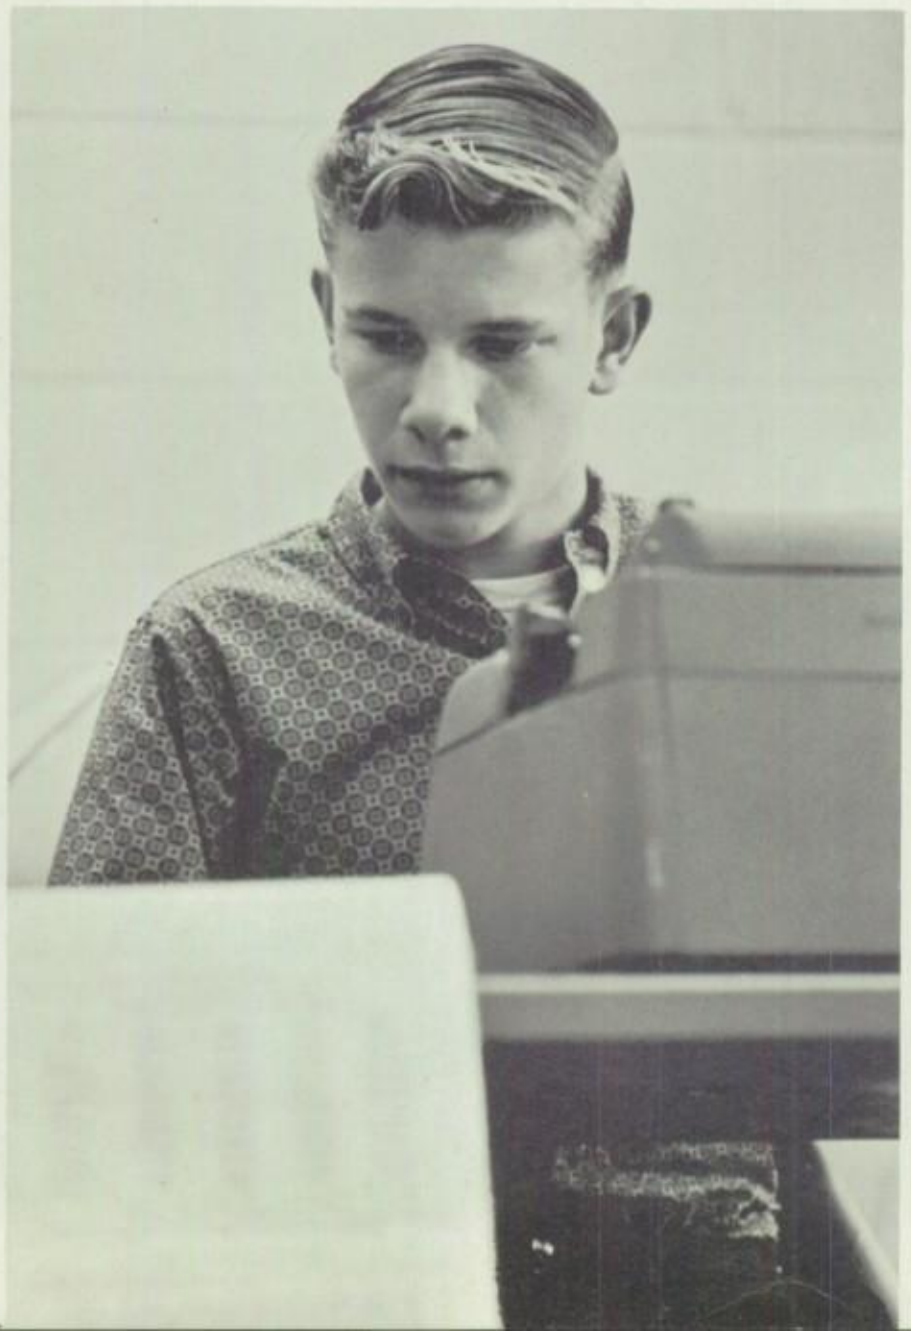


Examining an oversized sliderule, one of the many visual aids used in the math department, are R. Hill, R. Dittman, and J. Hildebrand.

Getting ready for a business career, C. Leifheit practices on a mimeoscope, one of the many machines used in Miss Uthe's office practice class.

Business Ed students develop varied skills

Intense concentration is reflected on the face of J. Bell as he strives to increase his typing skill and accuracy.



Helping students to attain and develp skill in vocational courses was the objective of East High's business education department. In Typing I students gained enough skill to enable them to do their own personal typing. Those who wished to continue the course as vocational training worked on typing business letters and forms in the second semester. A course in Office Occupations, the latest addition to the department, was coordinated by Miss Uthe. Office Occupations students gained experience by working at Aurora business firms while they continued their business courses at school. First-hand experience was gained by several advanced bookkeeping students who had the opportunity to work in East High's bank. Under the direction of Mrs. Verna Hilgen, bank manager, those students learned to operate several banking machines. Second year bookkeeping students covered advanced work comparable to a first-year college course. Office Practice students gained experience by typing and duplicating tests and other papers for East's faculty. In advanced shorthand students were required to transcribe with accuracy and a certain degree of speed. Juniors and seniors who participated in the Distributive Education program spent fifteen or more hours a week on their job. This course was designed to prepare students for work in selling and merchandising. Other business courses offered at East High are General Business, Business Law, and Consumer Buying.

Students broaden horizons in Social Studies

Points of interest are located on the raised globe by C. Brady in Mr. Matasar's World History class.

Psychology students studied in the library preparing outlines on the many phases of human behavior and examining information to be used in panel discussions. American History I and II classes were divided into three ability groups this year, making the work more interesting for both students and teachers. Juniors in this course followed the rise of the United States from an English colony to a modern world power. Special emphasis was placed on the Revolutionary and Civil War periods. Taking up the Twentieth Century in more detail, American History III seniors fought two world wars, struggled through Prohibition, brought the United States out of the Great Depression and put a man in orbit. This semester course was introduced into the curriculum four years ago. World History was selected by those students who wished to gain a better understanding of other nations. Supplementing their textbooks with current publications, geography and world affairs students delved into the background of current international problems. Seniors and last-half juniors in American Government studied the structure and functions of federal, state and local government. At the end of the semester they took the constitution test required by Illinois state law.

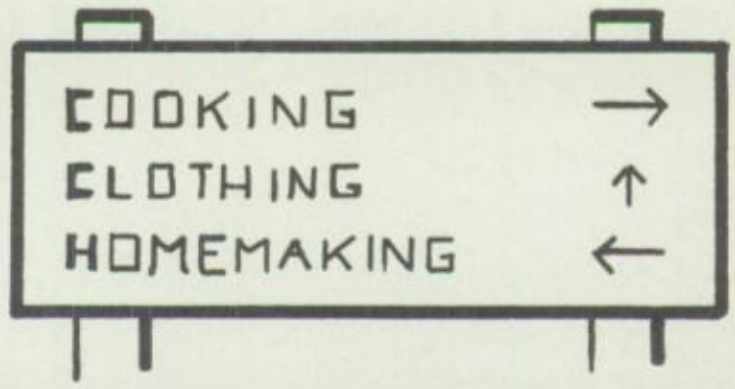
Determining the price index in economics class are P. Swain and J. Oros, assisted by their instructor, Mr. McManus.

Psychology students P. Culver, S. Walden, B. Bretthauer, R. Dragoun, and J. Werner discuss various social problems.

Tomorrow's homemakers learn by experience

Peeking into the oven, K. Welter, a student in Mrs. Schindel's Foods I class, examines the cookies she has just made.

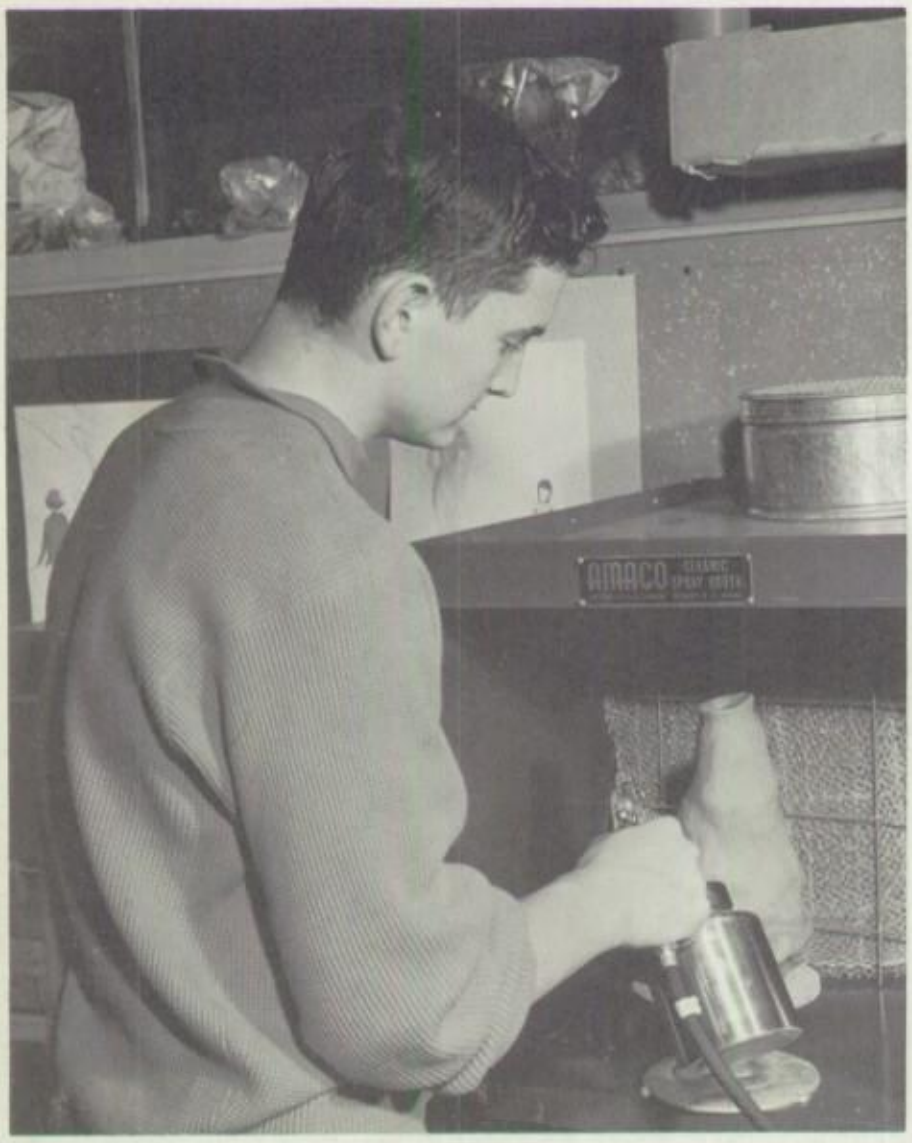
Future homemakers from East learned to cook, to sew, to care for the sick, and to decorate and manage homes in their economics courses. Pressure cooker gauges jiggled and the room was filled with the sound of escaping steam as the girls tested the lab equipment and exclaimed over the finished projects in Foods classes. Foreign cookery, meats and food for buffets and teas were studied in Foods III, while the Foods IV classes learned more about the management of time and money and about kitchen equipment. The girls in Clothing I and II studied an array of pattern pieces and learned to apply the material best suited to that pattern. Lined suits or coats were created in Tailoring. Interior decoration and budgeting were discussed by the girls enrolled in Home Living. Floor plans of houses were examined and the girls learned the characteristics of Mediterranean, contemporary, colonial, and ranch style homes. Certificates were awarded to girls who completed the First Aid and Mother and Child Care courses in Home Nursing.



Progress is reflected in the overhead mirror as A. Lang, R. Mahoney, C. Goldman, C. Pulfer, and L. Scheffler give a cooking demonstration.

Fine Arts offer opportunity for creativity

As one of the phases of her art course, M. Lewis molds a bowl of clay, which will be glazed and baked in the kiln at a later date.



S. Seaton, a junior student in Mr. Sewell's Art I class, makes use of the new spray booth as he works on one of his projects.

Colored slides, film strips, and color prints were projects of the photography students this year. To shoot complete basketball games for viewing by our team, a 400 foot synchronized motor for a 16 mm. movie camera was a valuable addition. Students were kept busy showing films and using other audio-visual equipment in assisting teachers. New equipment also benefited East High's art department. A spray booth was used for spraying glaze on ceramic creations, and a lapidary enabled students to use semi-precious stones in making jewelry. Illustrating posters and advertisements, students in commercial art helped to publicize East's variety of productions. In Drama classes students studied the history of the theater as well as phases of acting. Drama students directed one-act plays to be performed for English classes and community groups. Stagecraft class designed and constructed the scenery for East High productions.

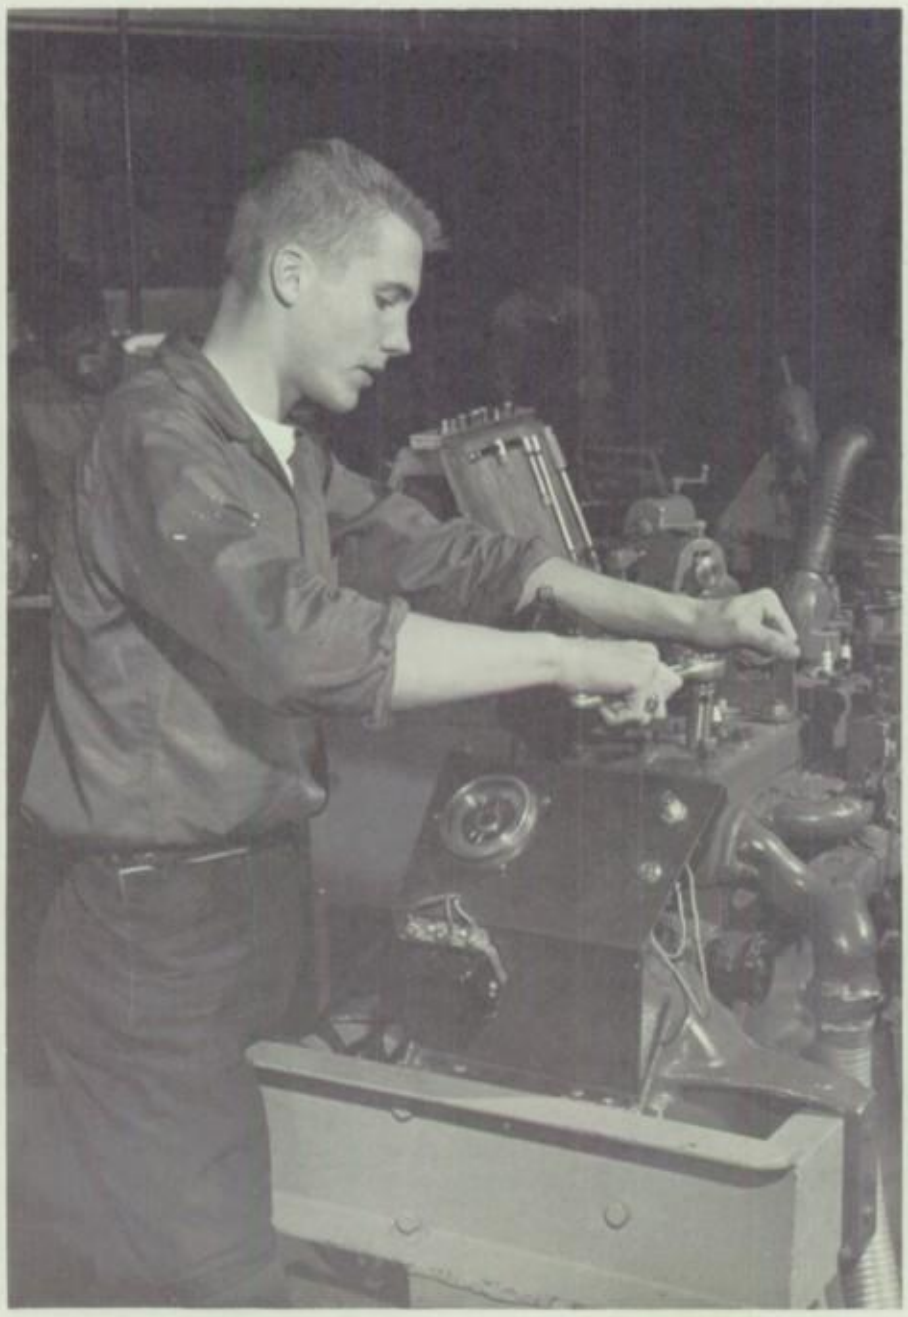
Industrial shops create job-like atmosphere

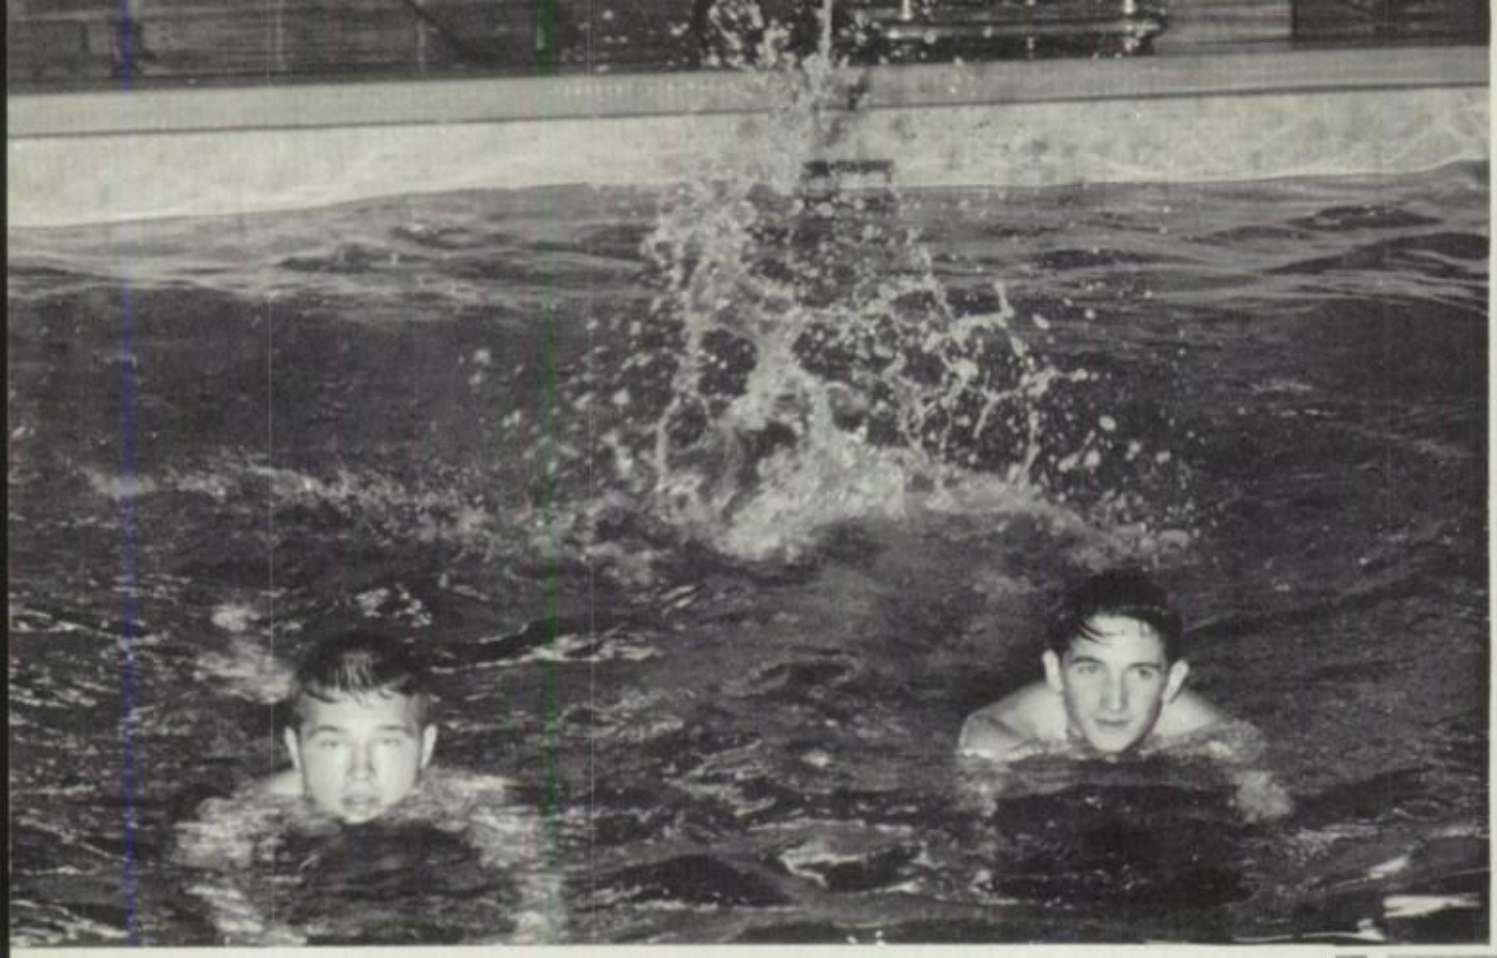
Drafting students J. Plese, B. Wulf, D. Wright, and J. Okapal practice reading blueprints, one of the skills they must develop.

The industrial arts department aided students in their preparation for a wider range of occupations. The various shops were organized much the same as industrial shops. Student foremen helped the teachers during class periods. A new course, Blueprint Reading and Shop Sketching, was introduced this year. The metal and building trades were particularly emphasized in this course. General Metal and Motor Mechanics included the study of welding and other such skills. Printing students, under the direction of Mr. Lloyd Gannegan, made up programs, tickets, and posters for the entire school system, in addition to printing the Auroran. Drafting was selected as the course of study for students interested in careers in architecture, structural design, and mechanical drawing. Classes in electricity learned about power distribution and the application of electronic circuitry in communications and industry. In machine shop students used hand tools and became skilled in the operation of machine tools. Students who intend to be tool and die makers were trained in Vocational Machine Shop.



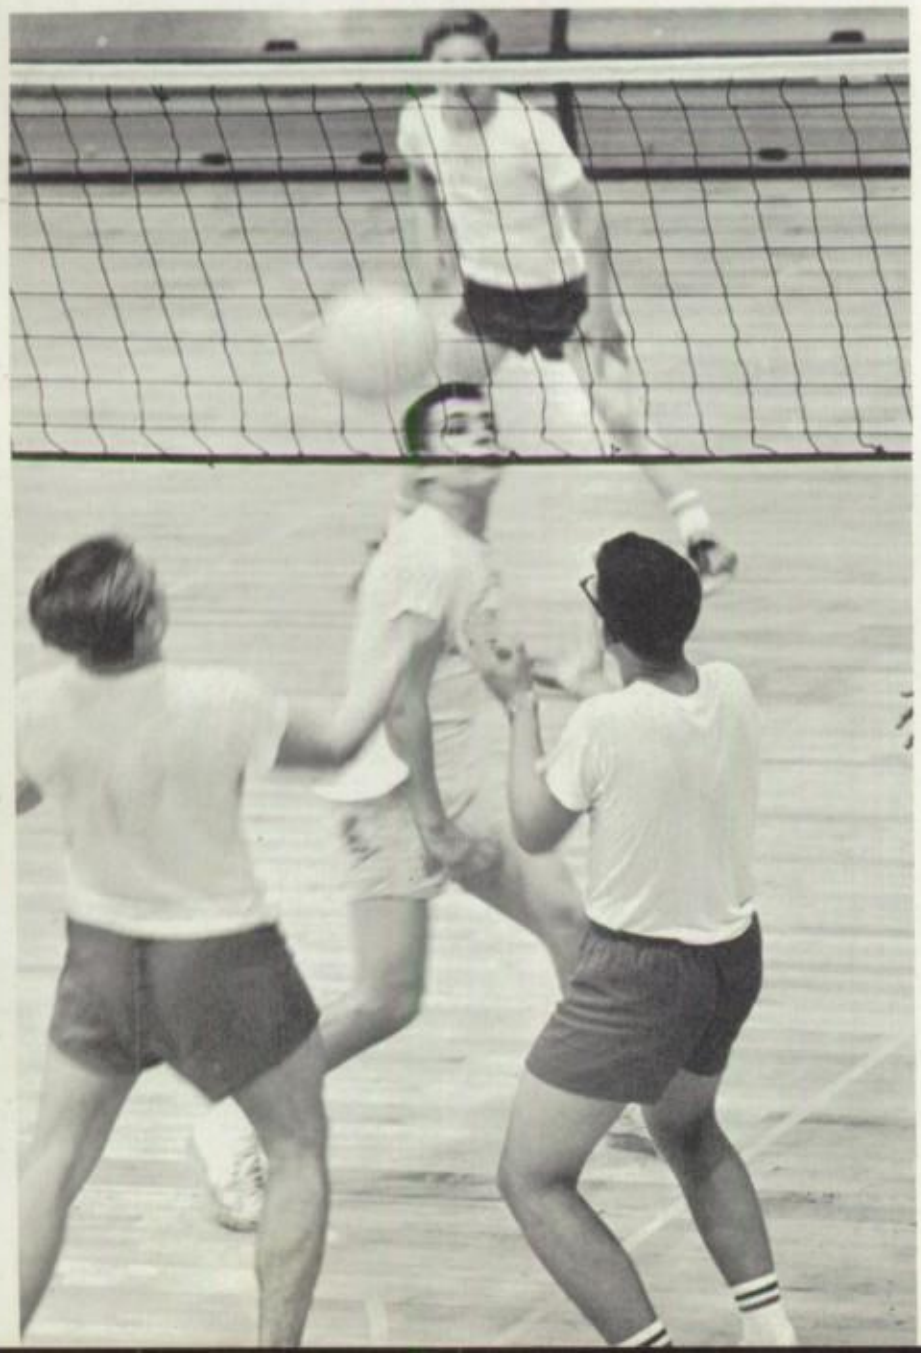
In Metals and Motors all machines must be kept in good running order. K. Nadler checks the condition of the spark plug.

Arc welding is an important skill in industrial education courses. An East High student demonstrates this method.



Swimming is one of the activities provided for East High students. A. Krantz and B. Hart take advatnage of the pool in gym class.

P.E. department introduces rotating system



A progressive system of sports was introduced in the girls' P.E. department this year. Under this system girls will have the opportunity to participate in most of the forty different activities offered during their three years at East. By the time they are seniors they will have mastered many skills to use in the most difficult of activities. Dance was an important part of the girls' program. Folk, square and modern dance were offered. In modern dance students developed poise and self-confidence and had the opportunity to create original compositions. Boys followed much the same program as in previous years. Teamwork and sportsmanship were developed through participation in group sports, such as basketball, volleyball, football and speedball. Swimming, apparatus and weight lifting were among the individual activities which helped fill out the well-balanced program. Physical fitness tests were again administered in each semester. East's students proved more physically fit than the average U.S. student. Because P.E. again became a required course for seniors, the gym teachers felt an increased load. Instructors in both departments were aided by student leaders. These students were chosen for their special ability and interest in physical education. Girls who became assistants were trained in a special leaders' course during their junior year. They had instruction in refereeing and teaching and also took senior life saving. Health and First Aid were made part of the P.E. program for juniors and seniors this year. All the sophomores spent six weeks in the classroom phase of Drivers' Education learning the rules of the road. They also studied the motor of a car. Students mastered driving skills in actual traffic situations. Each student drove for six hours under the careful supervision of Mr. Gardner or Mr. Griffin.

As one of his duties as a senior leader in a boys' gym class J. Bradford demonstrates the proper way to climb a rope.

School board designs policies and programs

As Superintendent of Schools for District 131, Dr. Norman S. Green has numerous duties to perform during the school year.

The highly-developed scholastic program of District 131 is designed to achieve each student's maximum academic and cultural growth. Dr. Norman S. Green, Superintendent of Schools, manages the administration and curriculum of this expanding educational system. As chief executive officer of the Board of Education, Dr. Green is the direct administrator of all school policies and holds authority over all school employees. Completing his fourth year in District 131, Dr. Green has spent fifteen years in education. He is a native of Saugus, Massachusetts. The seven-member Board of Education serves as the legislative body of the school district. With the advice of the superintendent, the board establishes school policy, evaluates and endeavors to improve the educational standards, and plans for the future expansion of the school system. Under this combined leadership educational TV and team teaching were introduced in the elementary schools, and various research projects were undertaken to determine the efficiency of our school system.

The nerve center of the East side school system is located in the Administration Building on Fifth St.

Among the duties of the Board of Education is the coordination of policies for school district. The persons who are responsible for this function include Mr. S. Shoger, Mr. R. Wynn, Dr. N. Green, Superintendent of Schools, Miss B. Deutsch, secretary; Mr. R. Dittmann, Mr. E. Fauth, president of the board; Mr. F. Hettinger, Mr. W. Dinsmore, and Mr. L. Dimond.

Administrators create smooth-running school

Mr. G. Houser, assistant principal, was supervisor of the activities included in the 1962-63 schedule.

Improving the educational standards is the constant aim of East High's administration. With the guidance of its principal, Dr. Frederick P. Abel, East has maintained its high rating in the North Central Association of High Schools. Originally from Glendive, Montana, Dr. Abel has devoted sixteen years to education. He left East in February to accept a position as Dean of the School of Education at Western Illinois University. Assistant principal, Mr. Gene Houser then assumed the duties of acting principal. Mr. Houser is from Highland, Illinois. A thirty-five year veteran of East High, Mr. Aaron Albight is dean of students. He reviews absences, irregular attendance, and aids in student guidance. Answering correspondence, keeping student records, and compiling reports are some of the duties of the five secretaries assisting these administrators.

Even though his duties have beeen expanded, Mr. A. Albright takes time from his busy schedule for a moment of relaxation.

Pausing a few moments from his busy schedule, Dr. Frederick Abel recalls the memorable events that occurred during his six years as principal of East High School.

East faculty grows as student body expands

Miss Constantine entertains students at the annual Girls' Club Christmas party as she pantomimes "I Double Dare You."

Teachers came from all directions as sixteen new faculty members joined the East High staff this year.Some came from college, some from out-of-town high schools, and others from local elementary and junior high schools. October, November, and February saw the faculty members attending a conference of the Northeastern Division of the I.E.A., a workshop for the East Aurora teachers, and a Kane County Teachers' Institute, respectively. Members of the math and social studies departments served on curriculum committees. Besides attending monthly departmental meetings, all the teachers gathered in the little theater on the first Monday of each month for a faculty meeting. Some teachers attended night school to get further college credit. They showed interest in students by offering their services at dances and athletic events.

Activity cards of M. Barcus and B. Dabbs are punched previous to a home game by Mr. Gardner.

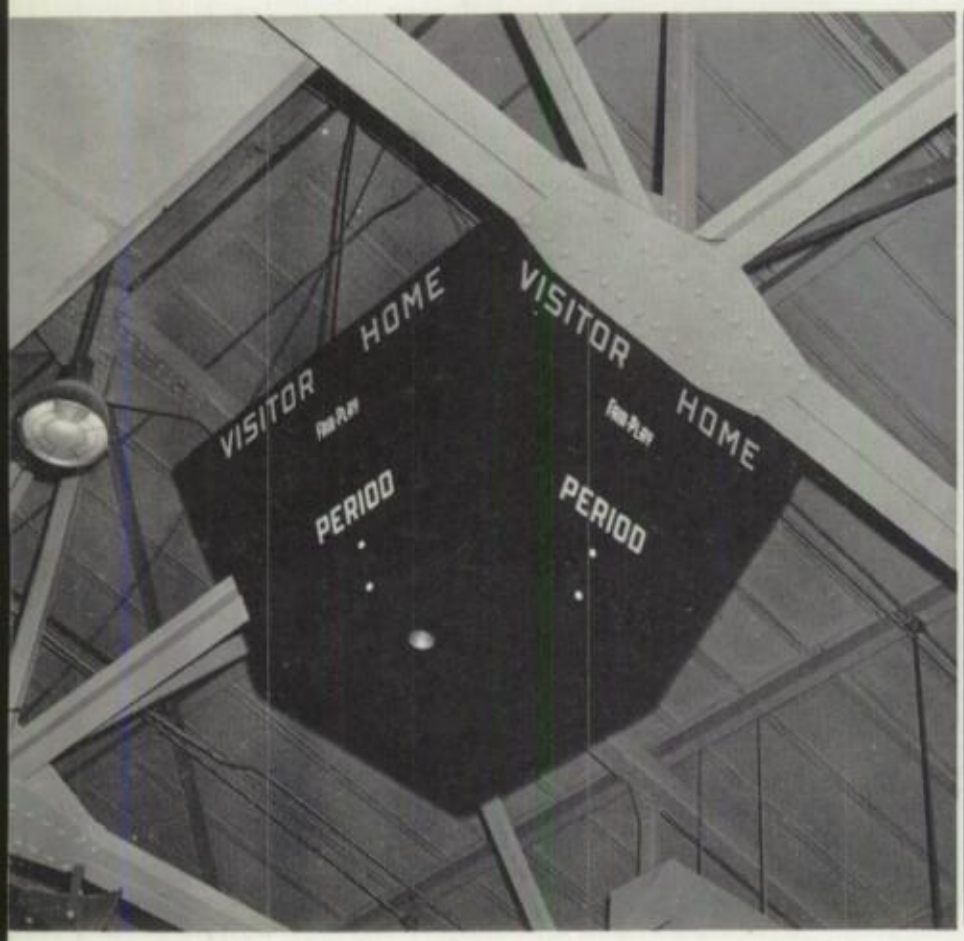
Parents and Teachers open East's doorways

"Doorways" were opened as parents joined teachers and administrators at six P.T.A. meetings during the school year. Each meeting emphasized opening a door to a different phase of school life. The annual Christmas program presented by the orchestra, choral groups, and drama department, opened "Doorways to Peace and Good Will." In the spring, parents viewed a practical arts exhibit and a style show, as they walked through" Doorways to Achievement." P.T.A. also sponsored a rummage sale and a bake sale.

Interested parents become acquainted with English teachers at the annual P.T.A. "Go to School" night held on November 8.

The 1962-1963 P.T.A. officers are Mr. Robinson, Mrs. Ellertson, Mrs. Reiland, president; Mrs. Gatske, and Mr. Spurlock.



Excitement permeated the air and tense muscles strained when our athletic teams met, fought, and sometimes conquered our conference rivals. Our fiercest rivalry exists with our cross-town foe, West Aurora, who suffered defeats at our hands in football and basketball. Our cross-country harriers, tankers, and matmen gave us a reason to glow with pride and punctuate the chant, "East is best," with a vigorous exclamation mark. When spring came, our cindermen hurled the Tomcat colors to the wind as they competed in track and field events. Our tennis, golf, and baseball teams also made their mark in the school's annals. The spirit which carried us through the successive athletic seasons also showed in our support of intramural activities and in the girls' athletic program. Making their first appearance in the history of East High, the girls' tennis team finished with a 3-0 record. Whatever the sport or wherever the team played, our Tomcat spirit proudly marched along.

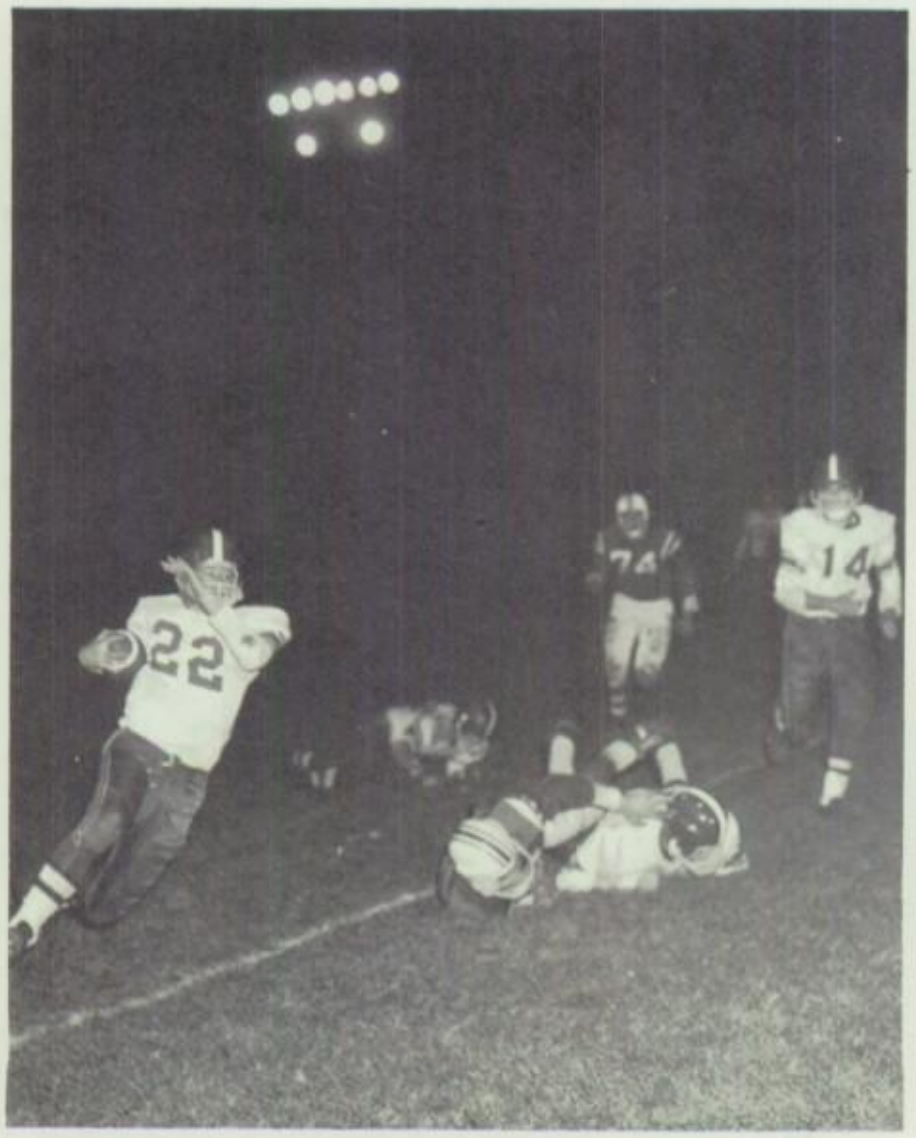
Varsity gridster J. Newcomb receives a pass that resulted in a 72-yard touchdown run during the 1962 Homecoming game. The Tomcats were victorious in their game against Elgin's Maroons.

Competing in their last year of Big Eight competition, the Tomcats finished in a three way tie for first. Elgin, Rockford Auburn, and the Cats all had conference records of five wins and two losses. At the opening of the season, the Tomcats were cut down by the powerful Proviso East team, 26-7. Traveling to Bloom, the gridmen bounced back to whip Bloom, 27-7. Starting conference play with a West High team for the first time in history, the victorious gridmen came home with a 13-0 decision. Next the squad met and defeated a favored Elgin team with a score of 22-7. Back on the road again, the gridmen nipped Freeport, 7-0. Returning home to a sloppy and rain soaked field, the Tomcats received a severe setback at the hands of West Rockford, 7-6. The following Friday night it was a different story as the title bound Cats whipped East Rockford, 28-20. Again appearing on a muddy gridiron, the squad was defeated as Rockford Auburn eked out a 12-6 victory. Closing out their Big Eight Conference play, the Tomcats football machine walloped LaSalle-Peru, 33-7, on the Cats' home field. This enabled the 1962 edition of the Tomcats to grab a share of the laurels. Among the gridmen receiving honors this year was Captain Ron Simmons, a senior lineman, who was selected for the All Big Eight team. John Newcomb, a senior end, was also chosen for the All Conference team. An outstanding pass receiver, John was voted the most valuable Tomcat of 1962 by his teammates. Jim Davis, a junior halfback, was also honored by the coaches of the Big Eight as he was selected for the All Conference team. Davis scored a total of 61 points to lead the Cats in scoring. John Newcomb and Fred Neitzel scored 24 each, Gary Gerberich, 14, and David Ray and Rich Stutz each scored 12 points. Junior lineman Jack Hughes was elected next year's captain.

Head coach Del Dufrain and Captain R. Simmons watch varsity players scrimmage as they prepare for a game.



T. Carson (22) gains valuable yardage as he receives good blocking against LaSalle-Peru. J. Davis (14) follows play. The gridmen won 33-7 to give them a tie for the title.

J. Davis (14) is upended as he is hit hard in the LaSalle-Peru game. F. Neitzel (16) appears to be enjoying himself on the turf.

Sophomores from two rival junior highs combined their efforts and achieved an impressive 6-2-1 record. After winning their two pre-conference games, the Kittens tied West Aurora in a thrilling conference opener. Successful throughout the season, the Kittens ended Big Eight play with a winning 4-2-1 record. With this record the soph gridmen captured second place in the conference. A fired up LaSalle-Peru team defeated the Kittens to tie them for second place. Artice Goins, John Kewenig, and John Lacart were elected honorary co-captains at the end of the season.

E. Visor has no place to go but down as he is surrounded by Elgin players in the Homecoming tilt. Bill Halling (53) follows the action of play. The Kittens came out on top 13-6.

The cross-country team finished its season with a record of five wins and three losses. The Tomcats placed second in the Big Eight Conference meet held at Rockford. They placed thirteenth and fourteenth in the St. Charles and district meets, respectively. This year the team was led by Captain Larry Eddington and sophomore Aaron Stills. Opening the season, the harriers traveled to the Blackhawk course on the west side of town to defeat West High 26-29. The following four meets were run at the Tomcats' home course in Phillips Park. First they met and were defeated by St. Charles, 25-33. Next the fox-hunters nipped West Chicago in a close meet to the tune of 26-29. DeKalb then reversed that score to defeat the Cats. Next the road-runners absorbed their worst defeat of the season at the hands of Naperville, 23-38. The Tomcats finished strong, adding three consecutive victories to their record. On the road again, the harriers whipped Malta by the almost perfect score of 17-44. Running in their last home meet of the season, the Cats crushed Elgin, 21-36. Completing the season, the fox-hunters walloped Morris, 20-41.

Tension is high as East High and Elgin harriers await sound of gun to start two mile race.

Thinclads win sixth City Relays championship

The East Aurora thinclads highlighted their season by winning their sixth straight City Relays championship. This win gave them their second leg in the four year marathon toward winning the Beacon News trophy. 1962 marked initiation of the East Aurora Quadrangular Relays, and it also saw the continuance of East's reign over the Blackhawks. This was the twentieth consecutive year that the Tomcats have beaten their cross-town rivals in dual meets. Reggie Hughes and Jack Bradford represented East in the state meet.

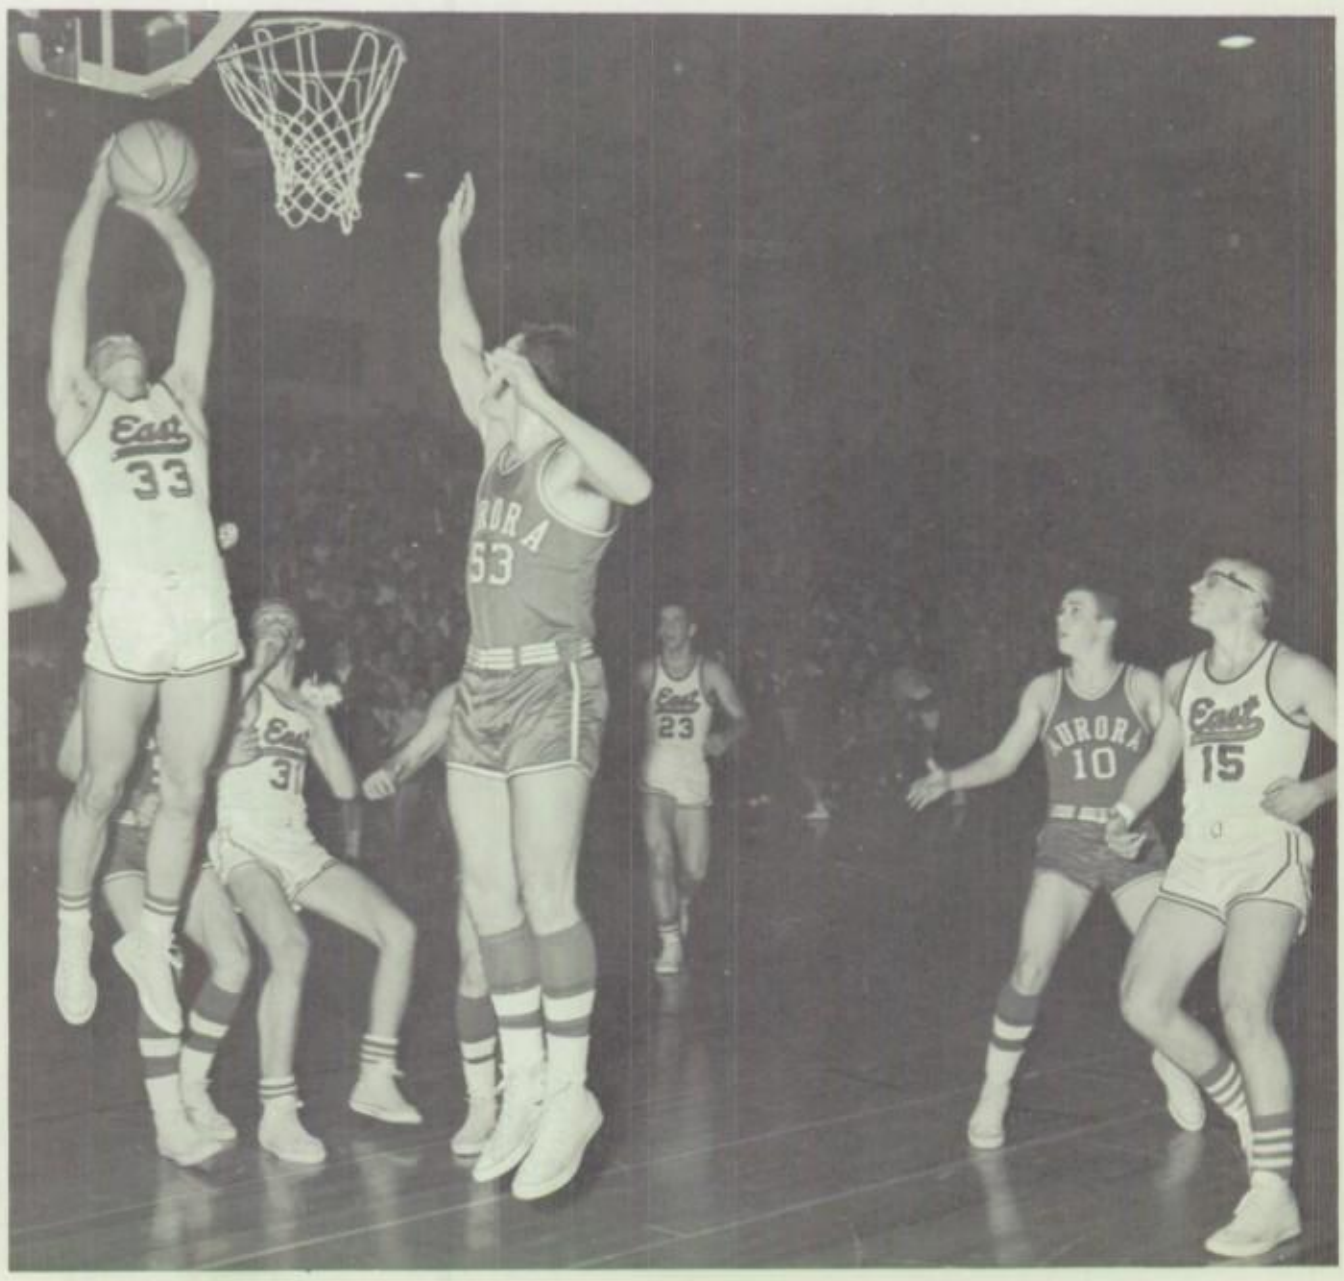
*Conference games

The 1962-63 edition of the varsity basketball team had a 14-8 record. The cagers placed third in their final Big Eight Conference race. After an opening loss to Thornton of Harvey, the Tomcats went on a seven game winning streak, with victories over Geneva, Elgin, and Freeport, Gary Gerberich dropped in a basket as the gun sounded to nip Elgin 41-40. Fighting their way back from an eleven point deficit in the fourth quarter, the Cats squeezed by Freeport 51-49 in three overtimes. The Cat winning streak was snapped with two losses in the Joliet Tournament, With two reserve guards leading the way, the Tomcats surged to a 30-15 first quarter advantage and coasted to victory over the West Aurora Blackhawks. The round-ballers fifteen-game home court winning streak vanished as Elgin left town with a 58-53 victory. The Cats closed the season by winning four of their last seven games, including two more crushing victories over the Blackhawks. After losing to second-ranked Auburn, 72-44, and whipping West 75-46, nine Tomcat seniors donned the red and white uniforms for the last time as the Cats fell to Geneva, 53-37. Among the cagers to receive honors were Dick Forrestal, first team Big Eight; Phil Woolley, honorable mention Big Eight; and Fritz Neitzel, honorable mention Big Eight, first team Regional Tournament, and most valuable player. Don Krietz was elected to captain the 1963-64 team.

R. Forrestal (15) leaps high into the air to snare a rebound as J. Newcomb (14) awaits further action in 68-38 win over Larkin.

P. Woolley (31) and F. Neitzel (12) move into position as J. Newcomb (14) shoots a fall away jump shot with his "three hands".



G. Gerberich (33) soars into the air for two easy points against the West Aurora Blackhawks. P. Woolley (31) fights for rebounding position as D. King (23) and R. Forrestal (15) rush in.

Sinking the ball to give East a bigger lead in the win over West High is M. Davis. D. Frantz and A. Hollis are in on the action.

The Kitten basketball squad opened the 1963 season on a sour note, losing seven of their first eight games. After a five-game losing streak, the Sophs made a comeback, winning seven of the next nine contests. This victory spree included two impressive victories over the West Aurora Hawklets, winning the first, 47-35 and the second, 39-26. Closing the season on the same sour note with which it started, the Kittens lost to LaSalle-Peru and were nipped by the Barbetts of DeKalb, 49-46. In the last battle, the Sophs lost another hearbreaker to the Auburn Squires, 45-44.

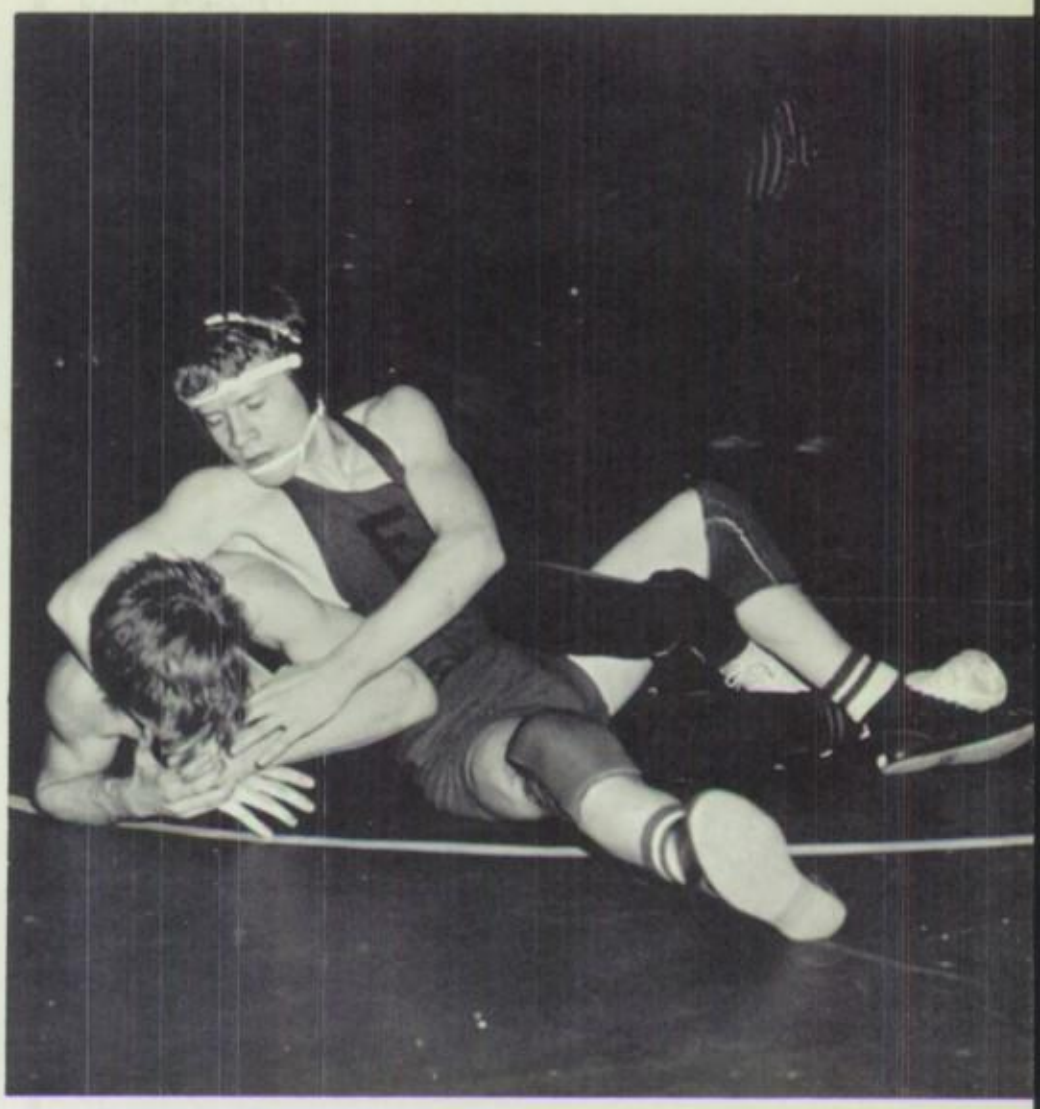
1st Place Big Eight Conference Wrestling Tournament

1st Place Oswego Holiday Wrestling Tournament

J. Orstead strains every muscle in an attempt to take down his wrestling opponent from DeKalb. Jim won this 112-pound duel 4-2.

The East Aurora wrestling Tomcats proved to be one of the most powerful squads in the area during the 1962-63 season. The grapplers' record was unblemished as they rolled over all fifteen dual meet opponents. The Tomcats placed first in the Oswego Holiday Wrestling Tournament and also captured the Big Eight title with five individual championships. Jim Orstead, Justin Edmonds, Captain Ron Simmons, Jack Hughes, and Dave Ray were all crowned Big Eight champions in their respective classes. Placing second in the District, the Tomcats were edged out by West Aurora, who had received three defeats earlier in the season from the Tomcats. This loss was the only taste of defeat that the grapplers had all year. Simmons was upset in the first round of the District meet held at West Aurora, closing out the season with a record of 22-1-1. Bill Wagner, Jack Hughes, and Dave Ray were crowned District Champions, with Hughes qualifying for the state meet.



F. Hall, East's representative in the 120-pound class, seems to be tied in knots on his way to victory over a DeKalb invader.

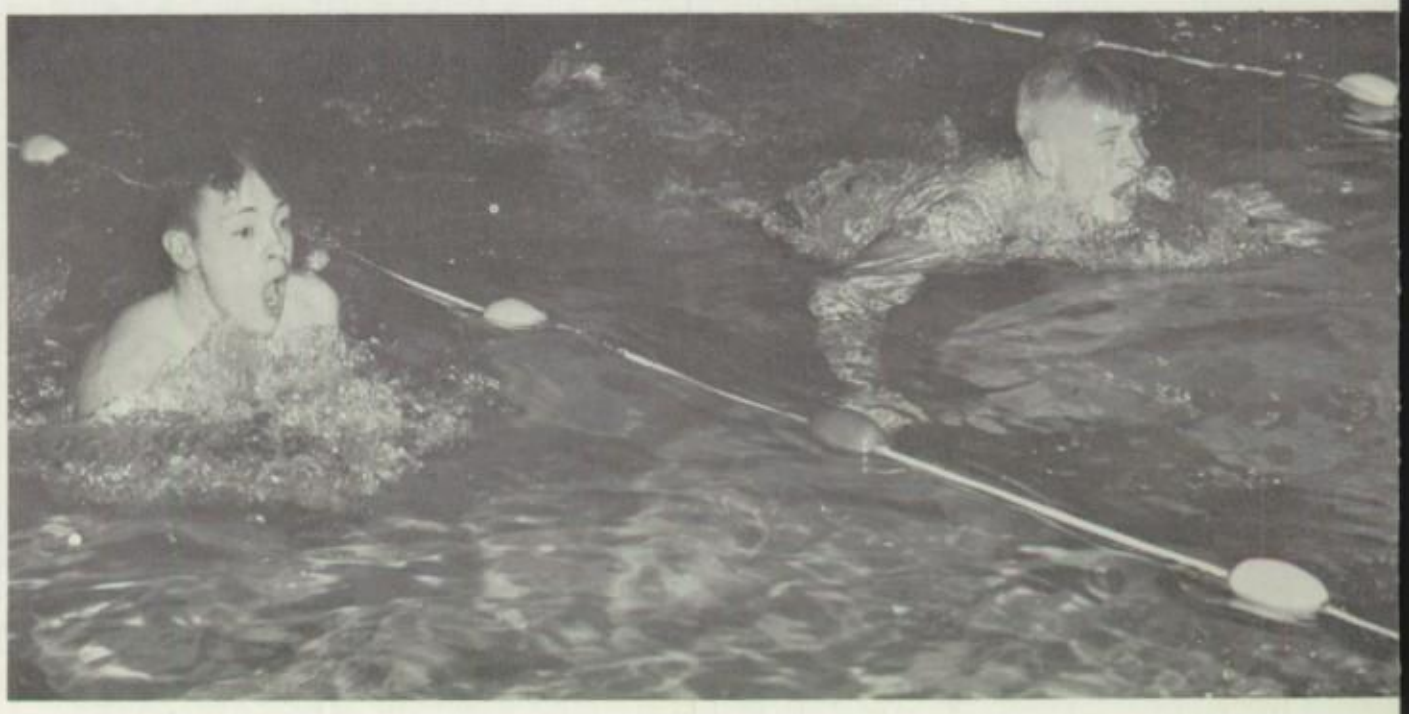
Tankers win 11 of 14, best season on record

In their first year under the coaching of Don Oberg, the Tomcat tankers compiled the best season record of any East High swimming team to date. In dual meet competition the Cats ran up a record of eleven wins against three defeats. Listed in the win column were double victories over Morton West, Morton East, and DeKalb. In the initial meet of the season, the Tomcats walloped Morton West, 63-33. Next, the Cats nipped DeKalb after the Barbs were disqualified in the last event of the meet, giving the Cat swimmers a 54-41 verdict. Traveling to Carl Sandburg, the tankers' spirits were dampened when they were handed the season's first defeat, 54-41. Recovering from this setback, the Cats went on to win their next seven meets. The victory string was literally drowned by Bremen in the Bremen pool when the tankers were swamped, 69-26. The Tomcats then whipped Morton East, lost to Elgin, and squeezed past Lyons Township, 48-47. The Tomcat tankers placed fifth and eighth in the Big Eight and District Meets respectively. Jim Saloga, East High record holder in the breastroke, qualified for the state meet held at New Trier High School. Chuck Haymond captained the 1962-63 team.



Edging out their opponents in the 100-yard breaststroke race seems easy for E. Hollis and T. Stroud, as the tankers win a dual meet.

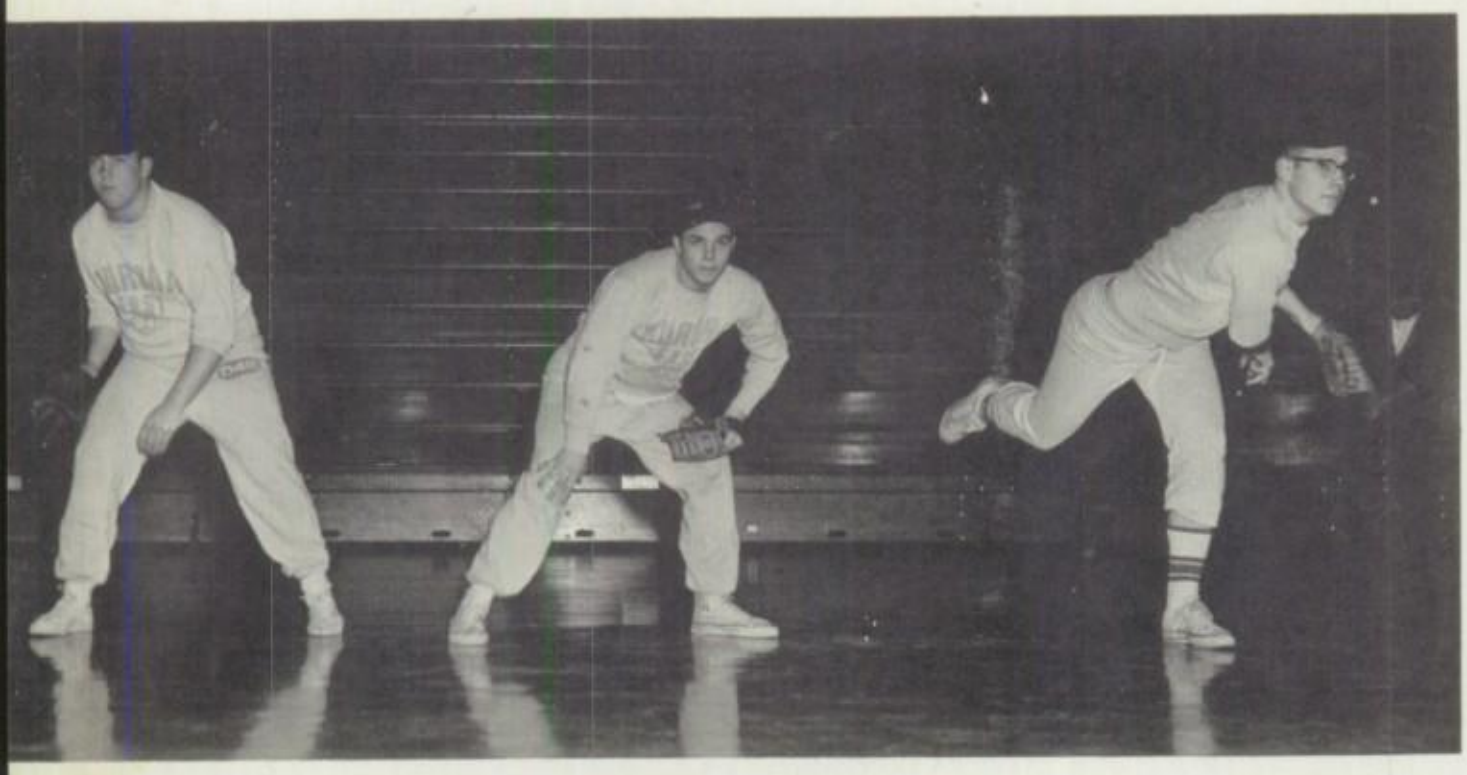
Baseball enters its second year at East High



Practicing for the first varsity game, East's three hurlers, J. Kewenig, D. Thompson, and G. Erford, toss a few warm-up pitches.

1962 marked the inauguration of four new baseball teams: the New York Mets, the Houston Colts, the East High Tomcats, and the East High Kittens. Three of these teams met with the fate of bad luck. The fourth team, the Kittens, came through the season with a winning record of six wins and five losses. The Mets and Colts finished deep in the National League cellar, along with the Chicago Cubs. The Tomcats, perhaps, had the worst luck of all. The Cats came through with only one victory in nine starts. They dropped their first three games to Glenbard East, Lockport, and Joliet. The Tomcats bounced back to tie St. Charles 1-1 before losing the next five games to Elgin, twice to Batavia, to St. Charles, and to Naperville. Playing their last game of the season, the Tomcats fiercely clawed their way to a 2-0 victory over Elgin. Ted Nehls pitched his way to this shut-out.

Turf-walkers take second place in Big Eight

The varsity golf team broke even for the 1962 season, winning six matches and losing six. Opening the season, the Tomcats went down to defeat at the hands of Marmion, 6½-5½. The golfers then reversed the tide, winning over Elgin 175-177, Sycamore 161-174, and Naperville 166-173 in succession. In a triangular meet, East placed second to West Aurora with Elgin placing third. The Cats bounced back to nip St. Charles 159-160. The turf-walkers then went into a tailspin, losing to Glenbard East 325-330. They again placed second to the West High Blackhawks in a triangular meet with DeKalb finishing last. East finished third in the City tournament behind the Blackhawks and Marmion Cadets. In the Big Eight meet held at Rockford, the golfers missed grabbing the title by the narrowest of all margins, when Freeport won 316-317. In the District meet East again missed winning the title by one stroke, losing to Wheaton 330-331.

Fourth in Big Eight
Sixth in District

The 1962 varsity tennis team broke even in twelve meets. The Cats opened with a loss against Glenbard East, 4-1, before pulling off their only shutout of the season against Lockport, 5-0. The Racketeers saw that score reversed when they met Ottawa next. After a win over DeKalb and a loss to West Aurora, the Tomcats went on a three game winning streak. Morris, DeKalb, and Joliet went down in defeat to the Tomcats during this streak. The streak was snapped by the Redskins of Naperville, 4-1. The Cats whipped Morris before losing their last two meets of the season to Elgin, 4-1, and West Aurora, 3-2. The Racketeers placed fourth in the Big Eight and sixth in the District.

East's intramural program begins its third year

Each Monday and Thursday evening there were signs of activity in the P. E. wing as enthusiastic students participated in East's intramural program. The girls' and boys' gyms and the swimming pool were opened to the participants. Equipment was made available for tumbling, wrestling, apparatus, and weightlifting. Many students attended to perfect skills learned in their gym classes and to take part in team sports such as basketball, volleyball, and volley tennis. The program was under the supervision of members of the P.E. department. Student lifeguards helped in the pool area.

Much equipment regularly used in gym classes is available to students during intramurals. Above: two boys practice on a bar.

Cheerleaders promote spirit and enthusiasm

Pep and enthusiasm were the trademarks of the East High's cheerleading squads as the thirteen girls led the vocal support of Tomcat athletic teams. Approximately ninety girls tried out for cheerleading. Following three eliminations, six upperclassmen, six sophomores, and a Tomcat were chosen by the student body to lead the cheering at all football and basketball games and at the pep convos. With the assistance of Miss Carol Ahrens, their advisor, the girls mastered new formations.

Spirit-boosting pep convos sponsored by the Pep Club and other school organizations were held prior to many home games.

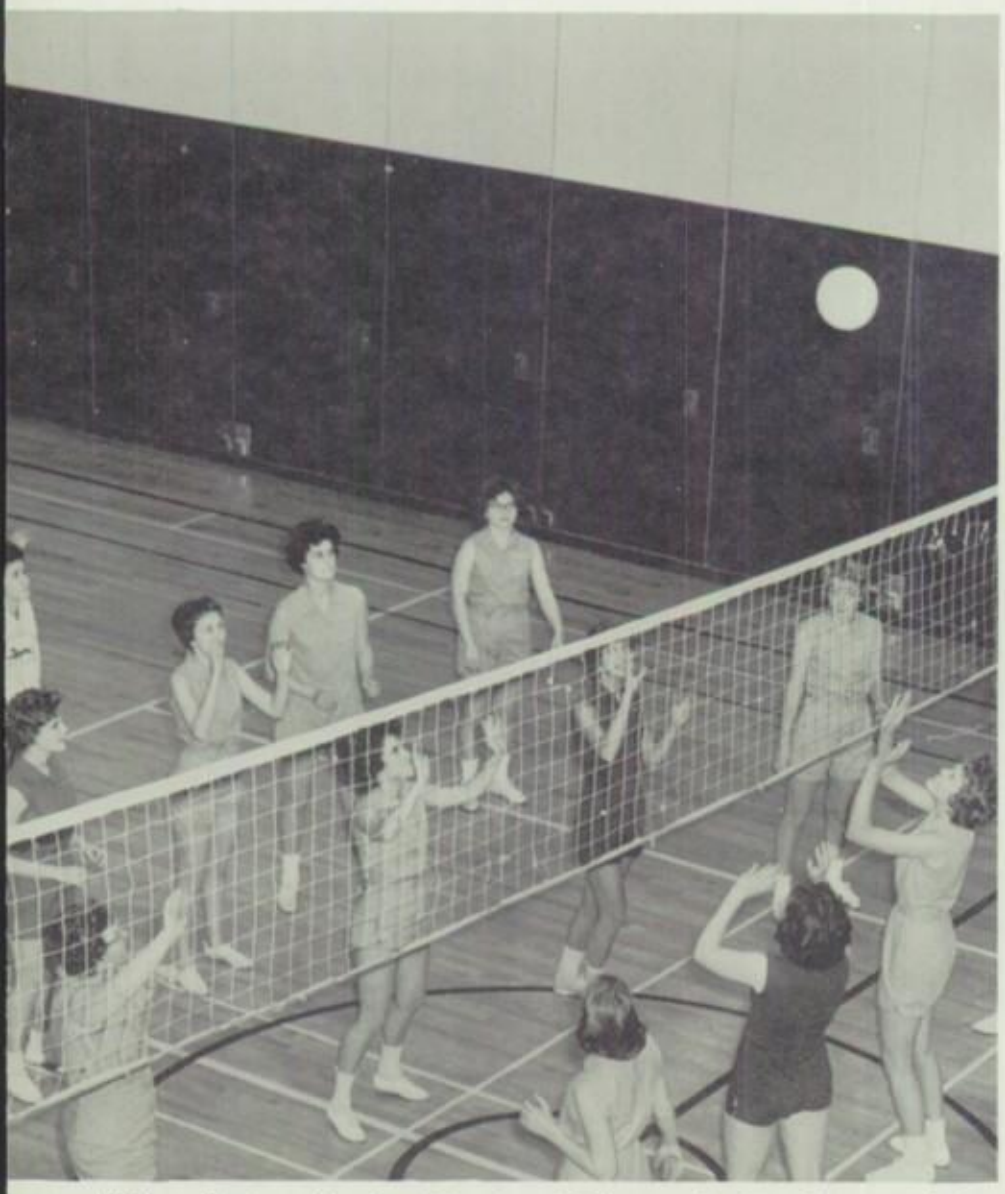
East G.A.A. members sponsor spring playday

The calendar of the Girls' Athletic Association was crowded with events this year. Tuesday and Thursday afternoon sports meetings were supervised by Miss Carolyn Holem, advisor, Mrs. Avis Lebiecki, Miss Joan Collins, and Mrs. Gretchen Ostberg. Among the sports emphasized were soccer, basketball, volleyball, and softball. In addition to the regular schedule, special activities and projects were featured in the G.A.A. program. The girls sponsored a playday in the spring. They attended several other playdays in nearby schools. The construction of a Homecoming float, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," the sale of G.A.A. sweatshirts, the sponsoring of a fifth-quarter dance, and the sale of refreshments at a tournament game took much of the girls' time. A combination potluck and caroling party was held during the Christmas season. As the end of the school year drew near, committees were formed to plan the annual G.A.A. banquet which was held on May 16. On Class Day G.A.A. presented a $100 scholarship to a senior girl who plans to major in physical education.

Members of the East girls' tennis team, which was formed in the fall of 1962, include M. DesJardine, J. Truemper, C. Parker, V. Stuart, R. Walvis, and P. Weissenborn.



"Play that net" echoed in the girls' gym during the month in which volleyball was emphasized in G.A.A. The girls met twice a week to practice their skills and learn to cope with game situations.

Orchesis opens Variety Show with dance skit

Orchesis members portrayed the hustle and bustle of a newspaper office in a dance composition which opened the 1962 Variety Show, "Talk of the Town." This was one of the original compositions which club members created at their weekly meetings. The girls sold programs at home football games to supplement the club treasury. They also sponsored a fifth quarter dance following the East-LaSalle-Peru basketball game. In the fall four girls accompanied by Miss Carolyn Holem, Orchesis advisor, attended a modern dance workshop at Illinois State Normal University. The girls returned with new ideas for compositions and exercises to be used at weekly club meetings. A trip to DeKalb afforded many of the members a chance to see the Orchesis Show given by students and faculty members at Northern Illinois University.

Members of Orchesis receive instructions from Miss Holem, their advisor. The modern dance group met on Wednesday afternoons.

Combine rhythmic swimming, water ballet, and a dash of creativeness, and the result is a synchronized swim routine. Thirty-five Aqua Cats pooled their imaginative powers and composed a series of acts for "Small World," their annual water show. Through songs about the sun, moon, and stars, the girls showed the relationship of the earth to the entire universe. Proceeds from last year's water show were used to purchase an underwater speaker which enables the swimmer to hear the music during her performance. Besides synchronized swim skills, racing and diving skills were emphasized at the weekly meetings. Under the leadership of their sponsor, Miss Joan Collins, races were held between the members. Aided by Mr. Donald Oberg and Mr. Gordon Postlewaite, the girls perfected their form on various dives.

Aqua Cats' activities emphasize advanced skills

In their annual calendar of events, the East High Aqua Cats include a water show and participation in state swimming competition. To improve their racing skills, R. DuSell and B. Carlson practice diving.

Planners of the annual Aqua Cat water show, "Small World," are the officers B. Carlson, P. Bieschke, B. Bachert, and D. Vincent.

With over 1500 students attending East, there is always an opportunity for us to meet another schoolmate. We may bump into her while dashing to our next class, or he may be standing behind us in the cafeteria line. Despite the friendship bonds which already exist in all directions among us, there are certain characteristics which set seniors apart from juniors, and juniors from sophomores. This class distinction is especially noticeable during Bow Week when seniors are decked out in blue bows, juniors with lavender bows, and sophomores in yellow ones. But the distinctions are apparent in other ways. Seniors seem preoccupied with plans for graduation, while the "in-betweens," juniors, are fired up with plans for the organizations over which they will preside for a year. Standing in the shadow of upperclassmen, the sophomores long for that day when they will no longer be "green sophomores." However, all of us have memories. . .memories of East in all directions.

Linda,
Best of luck
always as you leave East.

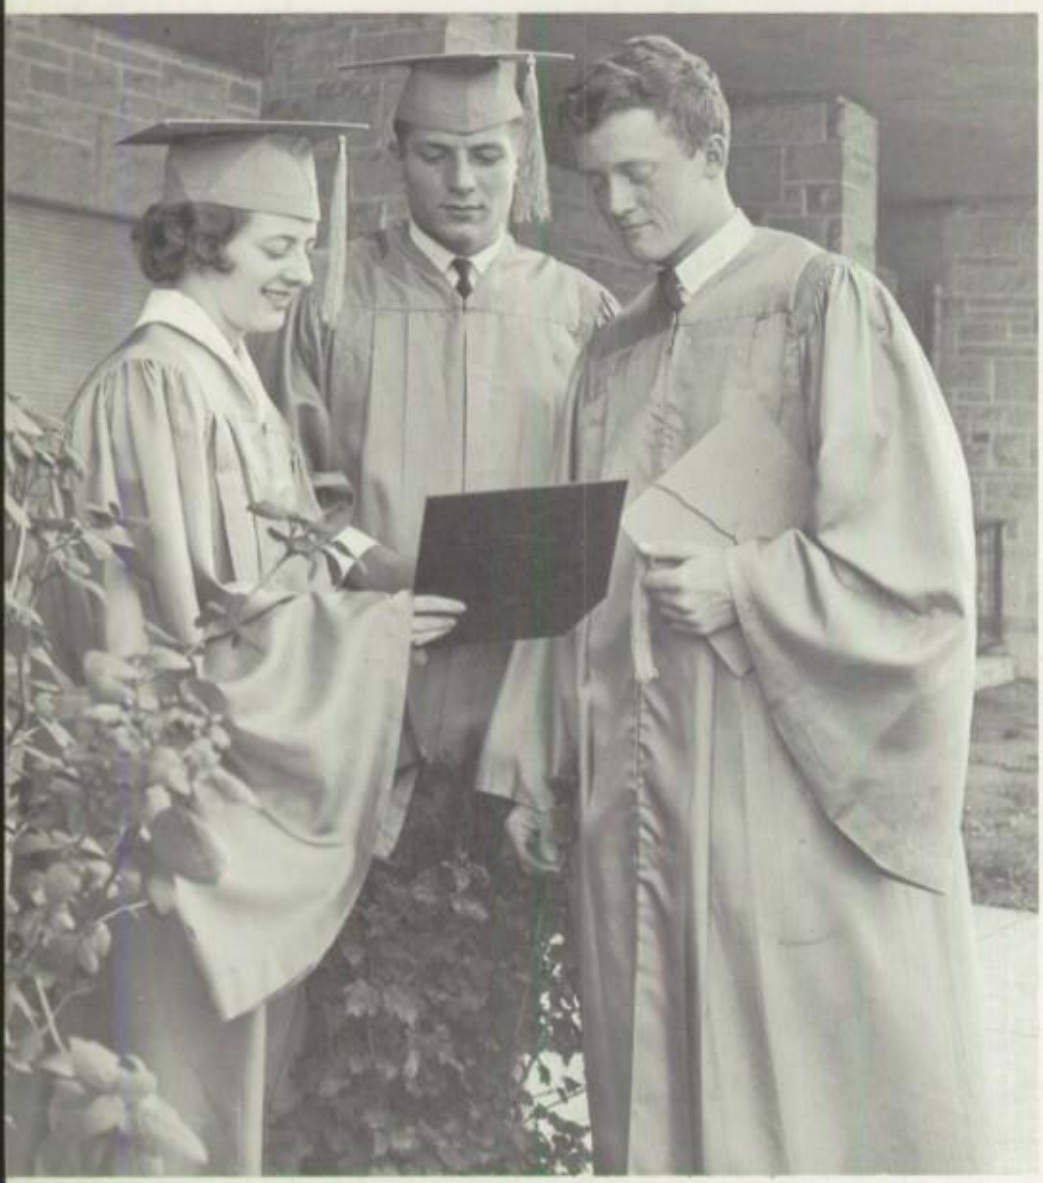
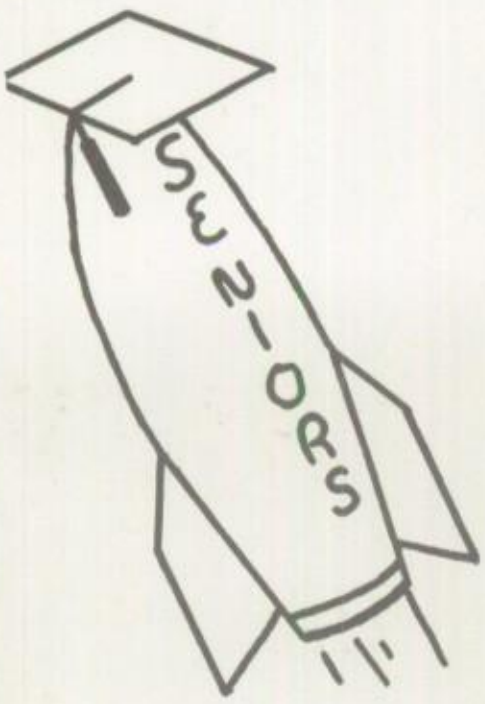
Class of '63 led down East way by officers



Senior class activities are discussed by B. Starck, J. Schaper, and T. Ireland, class officers, shortly following graduation.

Members of the class of '63 followed many paths during their four years at East, but on the sixth of June, all paths narrowed into one as the 388 seniors marched down the Roy E. Davis Field to receive their long awaited diplomas. Engaged in a whirlwind of activities, the seniors did not notice how quickly the time had slipped by. Reflecting over their high school days, they recounted the events which led to the present occasion. As freshmen, these seniors entered extra-curricular activities ranging from drama to football. Through participation in these varied programs, they grew socially and emotionally and learned to be good citizens.

Preparation for future careers was also a major factor during these four years. Pamphlets on careers were available to aid in choosing a profession. College conferences were attended by those students interested in obtaining a college education. In the spring of their junior year, the seniors elected class officers, and chose light and dark blue as their class colors and the lily of the valley for their class flower. Senior pictures and cap and gown measurements were taken the following fall in anticipation of graduation. Commencement speakers began work on their speeches during spring vacation. In the final months seniors had a hectic schedule as they took final exams and attended the prom, Class Day assembly, baccalaureate services, and senior banquet.



T. Carson, D. Koenigsberg, and R. Stutz, as the 1963 commencement speakers, devote much time during the second semester for planning and developing their speeches for the graduation exercises June 6.

Members of this senior committee chose the theme for the 1963 commencement exercises and selected the three speakers. The committe members are: Front row; J. Peterson, Miss Prindle, advisor; M. Kregor, and J. Schaper. Back row; D. Koenigsberg, B. Starck, N. Kinton, Mr. Woolley, advisor; L. Eddington, T. Carson, and T. Ireland. Absent: C. Bolatto, S. Metzger, L. Richmond, L. Whitt.

Juniors embarked on a busy year when they returned to school in September. On the way they displayed their new class rings. They danced under "Moonlight 'n Mistletoe" at the Junior Formal and entertained the Seniors at the Junior-Senior Prom. During the year many juniors took scholarship tests and met with college representatives to help determine their future plans. Others began preparing for careers in business, industry or homemaking. In the spring candidates campaigned for various East High offices. Juniors completed the year by electing Senior class officers and selecting their class color and flower.

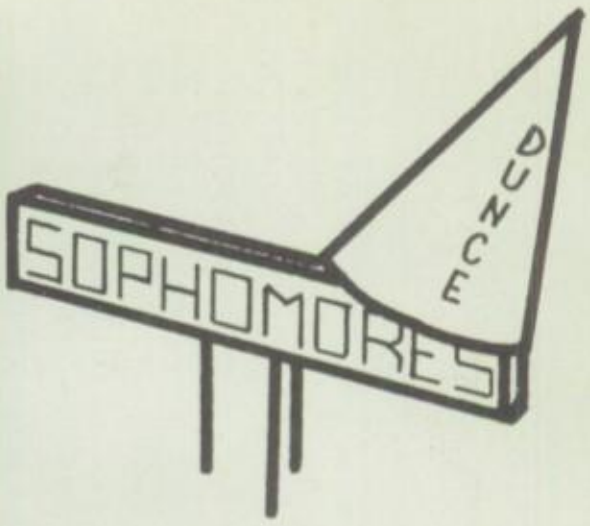
Enlightener aids Sophs during beginning weeks

Cries of "Where's the cafeteria?", "Which way to the gym?" and "I haven't found the elevator!" were heard as 605 sophomores came to East High from Simmons and Waldo Junior High Schools. Bright-eyed and bewildered, they followed the maps in the Enlightener, only to find East wasn't as complicated as it seemed. As in the past, the sophomore girls had "big sisters" to help them out with any problems. The newcomers soon found their way to the nurse's office for chest x-rays, tuberculosis tests, and eye and ear checks. They showed "There's a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" by capturing first place in the Homecoming float competition. In the spring the Class of '65 made plans for their Junior year by electing class officers and selecting their class rings.

Watching intently, sophomore biology students J. Nelson and P. Simmons learn what to include in their required insect collections.

Introducing new sophomores to East High is S. Runge, a representative of Girls' Club. This introduction is one phase of the orientation program which is planned by our counselors. A copy of the Enlightener was given to each student to acquaint him with the school.



The eternal problem of fitting "five big books in that little locker space" is a challenge to students including sophomore, R. Synder.

As Class Day approaches, the Speculum goes to press and our work ends. We, of the staff, greatly appreciate all the help we received during the year as we tackled the job of editing a yearbook. A vote of thanks is deserved by the East High faculty and administration for their support; Mr. Irving Lloyd for his help and advice; Artmaster Yearbooks, Inc. for printing our book; The S. K. Smith Company for the cover design; and Walinger Studios for taking the numerous pictures necessary. We would especially like to thank Dr. Frederick P. Abel for the many things he did to assist us and make our work easier.

Alma Mater, Hail!

Linda,
Best of luck
in the years to come.
Remember the guys
that are in the class behind you.
Have a fun summer.

Call me sometime!!

Linda—
Best always to a really sharp
gal. Never forget
our English class
and Mr. Dillon—
Byrne class, too.
Be good.
Norma
Bugg

Linda,
Good luck to you always in your future. Always remember the fun we had at East High.

Alan Adams

Linda,
Best of luck in your future years. Remember the fun we had in Dolly's class. I hope to see you this summer.

Mona Spilman

Linda,
Best of luck always. You're a real swell girl. Be good — take care.

Jackie Evans

Linda,
Best of luck in what ever you do. Remember
Cavaumen Buttons days
with Mr. Sellers, Wave
Lum this summer and
be good.

Diane

- Linda -
Best of Luck in all you do. Remember the fun we've had in high school. Be Hood but of course have fun.
